INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

The Defeat of Lecompton Considered Certain.

Collector Schell in Hot Water—The Investigation relative to the Willett's Point Sale—The Vote on Crittenden's Substitute, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 31.

Collector SCHELL is here for a two-fold purpose: First, to look after his nomination, which appears to be in a desperate situation; second, to clear himself of imputations relative to the Willett's Point sale. There is great danger that his name will not be sent to the Senate. The Administration is disposed to hold him responsible for the course of CLARK and HASKIN on Lecompton.

There are also rumors that he is implicated in the Willett's Point affair, and that RICHARD SCHELL pocketed a large bonus on the sale. SIMEON DRAPER and THOMAS MCELRATH were examined by the Committee to-day on this matter. It looks squally for SCHELL all around, and the Committee's report is likely to afford exciting and interesting developments.

The estimate of the vote for the Crittenden substitute to-morrow is 92 Republicans, 22 Democrats, and 6 Americans. Total, 120. CAMPBELL has been chiefly instrumental in effecting the arrangements between the parties.

The Opposition are confident, and the Democrats generally concede that Lecompton is beaten.

The speaking in the House to-day was unusually interesting. BURLINGAME was congratulated by the South Americans on his speech. There was a great struggle for the floor, the expectation being that this was the last chance.

All parties are in a fever about to-morrow. The first test vote will be on the ordering of the previous question.

The Senate in Executive Session to day confirmed one treaty with the Pawnees, and considered another.

WILLIAM CAREY JONES, the secret agent sent to Nicaragua, arrived last night, and called at the State Department to-day. O.

[FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.]

Lecompton played its last card and lost the odd trick to-day. The coalition of the Anties counts one hundred and twenty-one.

The Post-Office Department has triumphed over the Overland California Mail Company, and compelled them to adhere to Arizona.

Essential modifications were made in Mr. CRITTENDEN's bill, to save the otherwise impracticable Republicans.

The Senate to-day confirmed a treaty with the Pawnees of Dacotah, and rejected a treaty with another tribe. A.

XXXVth CONGRESS........First Session.

SENATE..WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 31.

Mr. DOUGLAS presented the Constitution of Oregon; also petitions from the citizens of Dacotah asking the organization of that Territory.

Mr. BIGLER presented a memorial from AMOS KENDALL and others, interested in the Morse Telegraphs asking protection against competing Telegraph Companies. Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, from the Military Committee, reported a bill for the relief of EDWARD INGERSOLL, of Springfield, Massachusetts. Some other business was transacted, but not of an important nature.

Mr. KING presented the petition of the citizens of Jefferson County, New-York, for a breakwater at Cape Vincent. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

On motion, the consideration of the memorial to suspend the laws of Utah was transferred from the Judiciary Committee to the Committee on Territories.

The bill to create a fourth Assistant Postmaster-General was taken up, but the expiration of the morning hour stopped discussion.

The Minnesota bill was then taken up, when Mr. POLK (Missouri) moved, in lieu of Mr. WILSON's amendment adopted on Monday, that Minnesota be allowed three Representatives, unqualifiedly. Lost Yeas 14, Nays 24.

Mr. IVERSON (Georgia) moved that the State of Minnesota have only one, namely, the Representative of the three already elected who received the most votes, and that a census be forthwith taken, and the other two allowed if the census shall show that she is entitled to them.

Mr. FITCH (Indiana) moved to amend Mr. IVERSON's amendment by proposing that the three Representatives be allowed this session, and thereafter such number as the census shall show.

Mr. DOOLITTLE (Wis.) moved to amend Mr. FITCH's amendment, by substituting two instead of three Representatives. The yeas and nays were ordered, but previous to their being taken, Mr. HOUSTON spoke against the extraordinary stretch of power involved in the matter of allowing three Representatives. Messrs. KING (N. Y.) and HALE (N. H.) were also opposed to the making the number of Representatives a matter of favor, claiming that Congress has no right to stretch the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. BRIGHT (Ind.) argued that it was no infraction of the Constitution to assume that a population of two hundred and fifty thousand is entitled to three representatives; California was admitted with two without accusers.

Mr. MASON (Va.) said that the Senate could not constitutionally decide who were elected. It would be an infringement of the prerogative of the House, which possibly will decide the whole election to be void. He wanted this vote to be recorded, that the enlightened mind of the country may see that this Government, although not 70 years of age, is in a state of decrepitude and decay, and that questions of constitutional law are made to bend to questions of political expediency.

Mr. GREEN (Mo.) said that the number of representatives was to be determined by Congress, and the persons who are to be those representatives are to be decided by the House alone. He read a list of States represented by fractions, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and others, and demanded that Minnesota, having a larger fraction than many of them, should have a representative therefor. By the strict letter of the law she was entitled to two.

Mr. PUGH, of Ohio, incidentally referring to Mr. MASON's remarks, demonstrated that Minnesota is now a State and not a Territory, and hence has the right to elect officers to represent her in Congress.

Mr. DOOLITTLE's amendment of Mr. FITCH's amendment was put and lost. Ayes 20, nays 33.

Mr. FITCH's original amendment was then put and lost. Ayes 14, nays 36.

Mr. FITCH thereafter moved another amendment, which was subjected to various verbal alterations from different Senators, and finally assumed the shape that Minnesota shall have two Representatives until a new census shall show she is entitled to a third, and lost. Ayes 19, nays 27.

Mr. IVERSON moved that she be entitled to two until the next apportionment of representation among the various States. Lost—ayes 23, nays 26.

The question recurred upon Mr. DOUGLAS' motion of Monday last to strike out the whole section. The ayes and nays being asked thereon, Mr. DOUGLAS withdrew it.

Mr. BENJAMIN, of Louisiana, moved to reconsider the vote last taken, which motion being carried by five majority, the question recurred on Mr. IVERSON's amendment, which was adopted. Ayes 29, nays 21.

Mr. YULEE, of Florida, said he had some amendments to offer, but moved to postpone the subject until to-morrow.

Several Senators seemed desirous to take a vote to-day, but the Senate finally went into Executive session, and afterwards adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, March 31.

The House went into Committee on the Deficiency bill.

Mr. STEVENSON, of Kentucky, spoke in favor of the immediate admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution.

Mr. GILMER, of North Carolina, argued in favor of admitting Kansas without the Lecompton Constitution, leaving the people to fairly settle the question at issue. This would be satisfactory to them and the country, and no principle would thereby be compromised.

Mr. MILES, of South Carolina, advocated the Lecompton Constitution, saying that it was natural that the South should feel sensitive, as the question involved was, whether more Slave States should or should not be admitted into the Union.

Mr. BURLINGAME, of Massachusetts, trampled the threat of disunion scornfully and defiantly under his foot. He would strike hands with the fire-eaters to exterminate the doughfaces who misrepresent the views of the North. He was prepared to vote for the Crittenden amendment; the Douglas Democrats, Republicans and South Americans, have united on this for different reasons, but without preconcert, which showed the honesty of their convictions. He appealed to the young men of the country, without distinction of party, to sustain the Douglas men, who have kept their faith, and remained firm, while others have trembled in the presence of power.

Mr. PARROTT, claiming to be the representative of the entire people of Kansas, said that without the enjoyment of the rights to which they were entitled they had no means of redress for their wrongs. They were the victims of a merciless warfare and persecution. After a despotism had been imposed by foreign invasion, and been maintained by the persistent arm of the Government, the civil strife culminated in the Lecompton Constitution, which was designed to prolong and make permanent the vassalage of the people. The Lecompton Convention was fraudulently constituted, and the pretended submission of the Constitution was a cheat.

Mr. ZOLLICOFFER, of Tennessee, advocated the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution.

Mr. NIBLACK, of Indiana, spoke for Mr. WARD, of New-York, against the Lecompton Constitution.

Mr. GROESBECK, of Ohio, should not vote for the Senate bill, as by it the Constitution of Kansas could not be changed until 1864, without a revolution. The Lecompton Constitution did not express the popular will.

Mr. TRIPPE, of Georgia, would vote for the bill, hoping by its passage to secure the peace of Kansas. With all due respect, he thought the amendment of Senators GREEN and PUGH a contemptible piece of toggery. No congressional declaration could vitiate the clause, providing against the amendment of the Constitution until 1864. It would be high-handed and insolent to attempt such Federal interference and usurpation.

Mr. MORSE, of Illinois, approved the Lecompton Constitution.

Mr. HATCH, of New-York, said the only way for certain gentlemen to prevent being read out of the Democratic Party, was to stay in the party. While according to them all the conscientiousness and patriotism which they in their modest pretensions claim, he hoped they would not be offended by his remarking that when they went out of the party they did not take out all the virtue and patriotism of the Democratic Party of the Union with them. When these gentlemen form new political associations we have the right to say to them, take down the old Democratic flag. He advocated the Lecompton Constitution, and said it could be amended at any time, all power being inherent in the people; Kansas could never become a Slave State.

Mr. MARSHALL, of Illinois, looked upon those who framed the Constitution as conspirators, and would not vote to sanction fraud and gross outrages upon the rights of the people of Kansas. He looked upon the attempts to ostracise and brand as traitors and rebels those who will not bend the knee to power, and lick the hand raised to whip them into submission, as indecent. He (MARSHALL) had a high respect for the President, but he was not a spaniel. He would speak and act as the representative of a free people, who owe nothing to the President and Cabinet.

Mr. HUGHES, of Indiana—Who has made an attempt to establish a test to read men out of the Democratic Party?

Mr. MARSHALL—It is done notoriously by the present Administration, and by the organs of the Administration; and it is known throughout the country that the term of office depends upon whether a man's conscience and judgment sanctions this thing or not.

Mr. HUGHES—Have you ever been excluded from a Democratic caucus?

Mr. MARSHALL—It so happens that a Congressional caucus has no power to read men out of the party.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Ohio—Does the gentleman know how soon after to-morrow he will be excluded from a Democratic caucus?

Mr. MARSHALL—That does not disturb me in any particular. A man is a good Democrat who votes a ticket without scratching and takes the stump for the benefit of the party. Is it not known that the Union newspaper forgets Know Nothings and Black Republicans and descends to the sewers for filth and defamation to heap on Democrats as good as any others in the country, stigmatizing them as rebels and traitors?

Mr. HUGHES inquired whether Mr. MARSHALL, before the party test was established, did not go into a meeting with those who were opposed to Lecompton.

Mr. MARSHALL replied that gentlemen had a right to meet to devise means to accomplish legitimate purposes. He maintained that the names of the prominent men who now favor Lecompton were supporters of the Buffalo platform—a motley crew. Those, he said, who attempt to read us out of the party have not been in it eight years, [laughter,] making true the adage that "new converts are more zealous than old members." [Renewed laughter.]

Mr. HUGHES interposed a question.

Mr. MARSHALL replied that he would not attempt to go into small matters. The gentleman was endeavoring to make himself conspicuous. (Laughter.)

Mr. HUGHES was understood to say he arrayed himself with gentlemen in higher standing than the member from Illinois.

Mr. MARSHALL—This is not the first time we have found flies buzzing round. (Laughter.)

Mr. HUGHES—In very dirty places. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. MARSHALL—That is the very place to find the gentleman. (Renewed merriment.)

In the course of his remarks, Mr. MARSHALL spoke of the Administration presses here and elsewhere as dirty puppies, spewing forth their filth, saying they must be muzzled. [Laughter.] There were millions of men who think the Lecompton movement not only infamous, but damnable.

Mr. HUGHES defended his political record, against which Mr. MARSHALL, of Illinois, and Mr. ENGLISH, of Indiana, had thrown out insinuations. He (HUGHES) had simply to say the man, or the representative of the sovereign or peasant, leader or follower, who imputed to him in the past sympathy for the Free-Soil or Abolition Party, was a libeller. The gentleman from Illinois (MARSHALL) had made a rambling speech, peculiarly bitter in its character, and lower than the usual standard of Congressional debates. Mr. HUGHES, after alluding to the dialogue with Mr. MARSHAL, about flies, said the Black Republican Party was the dirtiest substance of political chemistry ever produced. [Laughter.]

Mr. GOOCH asked whether Mr. HUGHES ever derived any sustenance from his contact as a fly with the Republican Party.

Mr. HUGHES replied that the Republicans took the plums out of the pudding of the last Congress, by robbing the Government, and had not the strength to expel some of their members for corruption. [Laughter and demonstrations of applause.] Passing from this subject, which, he said, must be offensive, be noticed the speech of Mr. BURLINGAME, whom he called the Don Quixote of the North—the land where the Kalloch and Dalton divorce cases are tried. He also alluded to Mr. BURLINGAME's remark about the extermination of doughfaces.

Mr. FOSTER, of Maine, inquired whether JOHN RANDOLPH did not apply the term of doughface to the same class of Northern men?

Mr. HUGHES recommended the gentleman, as a member of the Historical Society, to pursue his inquiry on that subject at leisure. [Laughter.]

Mr. TAPPAN entered the protest of New-Hampshire against what she considered the most stupendous fraud ever attempted to be perpetrated on any people.

MIDNIGHT.—The House is still in session, with little prospect of an adjournment for some hours to come.

Arizona—The Country no Agricultural Character—Minnesota, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 30, 1858.

It is alleged by some of the friends of a Territorial organization for Arizona, that the influence which governed the Senate Committee in their determination not to report a bill, emanated from parties connected with the Albuquerque mail route, acting through Senator GREEN. Leading Missouri influences, at any rate, were against the organization of the Territory, and, combined with the purposely-aggravated dispute concerning the boundaries, were sufficient to defeat the measure in Committee, though not to entirely dishearten the advocates of a new Territorial organization, who still intend to push the measure.

There are two gentlemen now here, claiming to be the properly-accredited delegate from Arizona. Lieut. MOWRY has been here all Winter, and has, as I understand it, an interest in the mines in the Western part of the Territory, in the neighborhood of Fort Yuma, where Major HEINSELMAN is also deeply interested. This region is thickly studded on the map exhibited by these parties with marks, said in the margin to indicate an "Important Mining District." It is claimed by other parties that quite as rich and important mines exist at the other end of the Territory, east of the Rio Grande.

The newly-arrived delegate is Major JUSTUS J. MCCARTY, formerly of Newburg, N. Y., and now of Las Cruces, in the Mesilla Valley. He bears credentials authenticated by the Territorial Secretary of New-Mexico, showing his election in January last by a vote of about fifteen hundred to represent the people of Arizona here, and, at the proper time, will claim what he believes to be his rights in the matter.

My preconceived ideas with reference to the comparative worthlessness of Arizona as an agricultural country, are frankly acknowledged by Major MCCARTY to be correct. The Mesilla Valley is the only part of the Territory which offers any very great inducement to an agricultural population. The Valley has already a population of about 12,000, which is not only increasing by emigration from the States, but by an excellent class of emigrants from Mexico. Major MCCARTY thinks that if Arizona were provided with a Territorial Government, there would be a still larger influx of industrious, working Mexicans from Tamaulipas and Chihuahua. Other portions of the Territory Major MCCARTY represents as fit only for mining or grazing purposes. For the latter purpose the slopes of the hills and mountains, covered as they are with a heavy growth of gramma-grass, a kind of food which all sorts of cattle devour with the greatest eagerness, offer the finest kind of a field.

The Apache Indians are composed of six separate bands, none of which contain more than 400 souls. They are now the most poorly cared-for of any of the tribes. Major MCCARTY thinks they ought to be disarmed and settled on some of the streams in the northern part of the Territory, and believes that in the course of a generation or so they would become peaceable and industrious, like the Pueblos.

A determined effort is yet to be made to secure three representatives for Minnesota. Senator WILSON's amendment, taking away all but one, was fastened on when TOOMBS was absent, or there would have been more of a fight over it—TOOMBS having undertaken to engineer through the bill with three representatives. The amendment offered by Mr. POLK would have been offered by Mr. TOOMBS if he had been present. It is somewhat strange that so ardent a southerner should be thus liberal with reference to the Congressional Representation of a Northern State.

The especial partisans of Mr. DOUGLAS were somewhat frightened by the attempt made to patch up differences by the Cochrane Committee. As it turned out to be a mere brutem fulmen, they feel relieved.

The larger portion of Lieut. BEALE's dispatches from his wagon-road expedition the Department refuse to make public. What is the reason?

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE PERSIA.

Further Details of the Execution in Paris.

Spanish Ministerial Statement on the Quarrel with Mexico.

DECLINE IN COTTON---BREADSTUFFS DULL.

CONSOLS 96 3-4@96 7-8.

The Royal Mail Steamship Persia, Captain JUDKINS—which sailed from Liverpool at about 11½ on the morning of the 20th of March—arrived here at an early hour yesterday morning—bringing 134 passengers.

The steamship Arago arrived at Southampton on the afternoon of the 18th March.

The proceedings in the British Parliament have been void of any special interest.

The London News of the 19th ult. says:

"The Italian Conference hoax has caused an amount of personal annoyance which its authors probably did not contemplate, but which, perhaps, will not give them much concern. To the inhabitants of the highly artistic neighborhood of Newman-street, the inquiries of bewildered strangers in search of the Conferences were for some days a sore nuisance, and the pertinacity of some Italian gentlemen, unwilling to believe that there was nothing in the daily published reports, has rendered their faces very familiar to the residents. Now that the fictitious character of the Conferences is becoming understood here, and inconvenience of this kind is ceasing, the mischievous reports are doing their work abroad. The day before yesterday an Italian gentleman arrived from France, to inform himself more closely of the supposed compatriots, and we hear that others from various parts of the Continent have formed the intention of coming to London for the same purpose.

The Paris correspondent of the Times, writing on the 16th, says:

"It is positively affirmed that M. DE PERSIGNY has tendered his resignation as Ambassador in London and that, in the event of its being accepted, it is probable he may be succeeded by the Duke DE GRAMMONT."

M. BOITELLE, Prefect of the Yonne, has been appointed Prefect of Police in the stead of M. PIETRI, the latter having resigned.

The Daily News Paris correspondent writes: "It is most confidently stated, in a quarter likely to be well informed on the subject, that the Minister of Marine has sent a circular to the Maritime Prefects advising the French Navy to be put on a war footing by the 1st of May."

Correspondence from Paris generally describes the effect of the correspondence between Lord MALMESBURY and Count WALEWSKI as unsatisfactory, although its publication produced no material effect on the Bourse.

By a decision of the Minister of Finance, the interest on Treasury Bonds is fixed from the 16th of March at 4 per cent. on bonds having from three to five months to run; 3½ per cent. for six to eleven months, and 4 per cent. for a year.

The Conferences in Paris are not expected to assemble before May.

Business continued very bad in Paris, with scarcely anything doing at the Bourse.

The Globe's Paris correspondent is informed that great efforts were made to intercept the Emperor's perusal of a multitude of anonymous letters, informing him that his own speedy doom would follow the execution of ORSINI.

On the 17th the Emperor and Empress visited the Opera for the first time since the attempted assassination.

A telegram from Naples of the 18th March says: "A royal decree, signed this morning by the King and officially communicated, allows WATT (one of the English prisoners in the Cagliari affair) to return to England immediately."

The director and responsible editor of the Pensiero a radical journal of Turin, had been condemned to fifteen days' imprisonment and two hundred francs fine for an article offensive to the Emperor of the French.

Reports were rife that Count CAVOUR had resigned, in consequence of the majority of the Legislative Committee having rejected the proposed Conspiracy and Press law.

Advices from Madeira to the 9th of March report the prevalence there on the 5th of a complete hurricane, which did considerable damage to the shipping in port. The American frigate Cumberland pitched her jib-boom under, carrying it away, and lost two hands, having four anchors down and all her lower guns overboard. She was driven from her anchors, and was in imminent peril during the whole of the night.

The Execution of the French Conspirators.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Thursday, March 18, 1858.

In peace, as in war, France is the country of tragedy and of surprises. In her displays she studies tragic effect, and she never misses a detail even of minor importance. When you go to the theatre, they do not give you an analysis of the piece, because for a Frenchman that would destroy all the illusion; you have only the names of the actors and the rôles. So, too, with an execution; it is conducted with all the regulations of a tragic display, secresy of time, place and even of individuals. It professes to be public and yet this is only a technicality; it is in the street, but all care is taken that no one sees it.

The night scene at the execution of ORSINI and PIERRI was more tragic, if possible, than the execution itself. The working population, greedy for this kind of entertainment, were on the alert; for several nights they had watched the Place de la Roquette in large numbers, sure not to be tricked by the authorities. The morning was chilly and the ground damp, and the number of those on the watch larger than any previous night. When we arrived at 4 o'clock, several thousand persons were already collected, and the soldiers had formed lines which excluded the crowd entirely from the little square and threw them back into the adjoining streets. We had paid for a window in an old house that overlooked indifferently well the place of execution; but the police, who had not forgotton the bombs of the Rue Lepelletier, prohibited the occupation of the few houses that overlook the place except by their ordinary residents.

We were thus thrown into the crowd, and such a crowd! It a man wishes a full appreciation of the very expressive word canaille, he must see the Faubourg St. Antoine on the morning of an execution. If he desires a living impersonation of the sans culottes of the revolution, he will be here.

In the 50,000 people who were at the execution of ORSINI and PIERRI, perhaps there was not one drunken man, and not a single man disposed to fight or incommode his neighbor purely for the sake of incommoding him; but it was a mob, nevertheless, which had a terrible physiognomy, and one which belongs only to the canaille of Paris. Its recklessness in the presence of death was the most marked characteristic; the wit of the masked ball was the most in vogue, and but for the absence of masks and dominos one might have imagined himself suddenly transplanted to the lobby of the Grand opera. Hurling shouting, badgering the officers, trials of wit, puns on the guillotine and on the unfortunate criminals about to pass through its fatal notch, formed the budget of the morning's amusement till the guillotine had accomplished its work. The mob was composed principally of very young people, who certainly did not wear on this occasion either their Sunday blouses or Sunday caps. The reputed cleanliness of the Paris mob was for once contradicted, but it is probable that the people we saw here never leave their workshops on Sunday; it was in fact a class of people never seen in the better parts of the city, and not even in the Faubourg where they live but after night—a sort of coal-mine population, who are only called out by revolutions or an important night event, such as an execution. Their filthiness was not confined to their clothes, and hands and faces, for a companion on the occasion whose particular horror is a certain larva, was compelled to move so often, that he afterwards declared he had not seen the execution at all.

The troops commenced to arrive on the ground at midnight. The place was at once cleared and lines formed to expel the crowd entirely from the little square comprised between the two prisons, and near the centre of which the scaffold is erected. From 3 until 5 o'clock troops of various arms continued to arrive in rapid succession, until about 5,000 armed men were on the ground. Of these, five detachments, numbering more than a thousand men, were cavalry. The Sergens de Ville, or policemen, numbered nearly 2,000, and these, as customary, were used to form the lines next the crowd—for a French crowd will not support soldiers armed with bayonets. The sergens de ville, by their patience and good humor, and by their every day contact with the people in the streets, are much better adapted to control a turbulent mob, than brutal soldiers of the line, who know nothing but their bayonets. The policemen however, would be insufficient on such an occasion as this, if the bayonets did not form lines inside, to support them if needed. The cavalry, in part, were placed in hollow squares around the guillotine; the rest defiled into the large court of the prison opposite, Les Jeunes Détenues, as a reserve in case of need.

The nocturnal parade of glistening helmets and bayonets formed the most striking feature of the spectacle. The place of execution is within a block of the grand entrance to the cemetery of Père la Chaise. The Rue de la Roquette, which conducts from the Bastille to the entrance of the cemetery, passes directly through the Place de la Roquette, the place of execution. The street is dismal, even in the day-time: the houses are low and irregular, and are nearly all occupied by shops for the sale of monuments, crosses, immortelles, and other mortuary emblems. The two prisons, with their high dead walls like a fortification, their grated windows and crenated friezes, the ghastly guillotine with its knife hanging suspended over the block, needed only the clanging of arms and the glitter of bayonets to form the most sinister night-scene it is possible to imagine. It was novel, but it was terrible.

At 6 o'clock day began to appear, and at 7 the execution took place. It was not known that DE RUDIO had received a commutation of his punishment, and the crowd anticipated the execution of three men instead of two. At 6 o'clock ORSINI and PIERRI were awakened and informed that their time had come. But few of the audience saw PIERRI passing under the knife, as ORSINI stood up in front. Not a minute elapsed between the two executions, and ORSINI stood alone while his fellow culprit was in the hands of the executioners.

There was the most marked difference in the conduct of the two prisoners, and they have left behind them the impression that, while ORSINI was a man of character, with the education and the refinements of a gentleman, the other was a scoundrel of which the earth was well rid. When ORSINI was asked to sign the demand for an appeal for a new trial, he said, "If I sign this demand, it is not from feebleness, but because I wish to gain time to arrange some family affairs. I do not delude myself, for if there were a pile of reasons as high as the towers of Notre-Dame, they would not give me a new trial." PIERRI, during all his confinement, talked a great deal to say nothing. He was exigeant with his jailors; he found fault with everything, and in fine conducted himself like a man of vulgar breeding.

ORSINI wrote a second letter to the Emperor, in which he declared that he neither asked a pardon nor a remittance from the condemnation of the Court; but he asked the Emperor's personal pardon for the great crime he had committed. He said that he believed at the time of the attempt against his Majesty's life he was adopting the only means in his power for the liberation of his country. But he now regretted the deed, and, as he was about to die, demanded forgiveness for the crime. ORSINI, by his manly and dignified conduct, has left many regrets that he should have met such a fate; the Emperor himself would have gladly pardoned him, and the Empress pleaded his cause to the last moment. In the Council of Regency, which was called on the question of pardoning these men, the example of the attempt on the life of the first Emperor at St. Nicaisse was recalled, in which NAPOLEON said, that "if it were for himself, he would pardon the prisoner, but since others had been killed, and he had been the cause of their deaths, he felt that their pardon or execution lay in the hands of the people, represented by their tribunals." The attempt of the Rue Lepelletier was a precisely similar case.

The commutation of DE RUDIO was in no way connected with the trial of Dr. BERNARD at London. It was considered that he was in need of bread, that he worked for the others for the money they gave him, and that he was not thus so deeply responsible. From the moment of his condemnation DE RUDIO continued gay and indifferent, and only showed animation of countenance when informed of his reprieve. He has a very fine voice, and whenever asked by his jailors sang them Italian songs. All the prisoners wore a straight-jacket, and each had in his cell constantly two guardians. GOMEZ and DE RUDIO will be conveyed to Cayenne in the same vessel.

This morning, the Moniteur announces the retirement of M. PIETRI, Senator, for the last six years Prefect of Police, from the latter office, and the appointment of M. BOITELLE, Prefect of the Yonne, in his place. The resignation of M. PIETRI is attributed to the reproaches made to him by the Emperor on the occasion of the attempt at the Grand Opera, and to the chagrin which his failure to find the refugees before the event, caused him. He still holds his post of Senator, however, and will, no doubt, be placed in some other important office as a compensation. MALAKOFF.

Orsini and his Children.

In the year 1854, when about to start on the desperate mission which led to his arrest at Hermannstadt and confinement in the citadel of Mantua, ORSINI intrusted the education of his daughters to his brother and uncle, and to the former addressed the following letter. His frame of mind at the time is thus depicted by himself in his memoirs. He says;

Before leaving for Italy I was again overcome with melancholy. I was sick of everything. A sad presentiment told me that I should see my children, my uncle, my brother no more. I wrote to the two latter that I was going into Asia, so that they should have no suspicion that I was engaged in a new conspiracy. I sent the letters open to Mr. COLUMBO, of Nice, to forward them; they were dated from Geneva, so that the police, if they opened the letters, should not know where I was.

TO ERNESTINA AND IDA ORSINI.

SWITZERLAND, Sept. 28, 1854.

MY DEAR DAUGHTERS: These few lines, together with two little hearts, which contain two locks of my hair, will be consigned to you when I am alive no longer; you will also receive a portrait greatly resembling me, and I have left the necessary instructions with my brother LEONIDAS, so that you may have it, and keep it in memory of your poor father.

I left you in your tender age; you were very little, and the last time that ever I saw you was in the prison at Nice. I was driven from Piedmont because I had conspired against the foreigners who occupied my country.

The vicissitudes of Italy do not permit me to watch over your education myself, and I have not had the sweet pleasure to caress you in your most beautiful period of youth.

In the lines which I have written to my brother LEONIDAS and my uncle I have explained that I leave everything to you. I have begged them to transfer to you two everything which they might have intended to do to my advantage. I have recommended you more than myself, because I am anxious that they should love you, and take the greatest care in your education. I go to far-off lands embittered by everything. I carry with me two thoughts—of you two dear children, and that of my dear country; and I trust that my occupations, my sacrifices, may be useful to both. If I die soon, it will not be my fault that I have not executed these two objects; it will be that of death.

Before concluding I must give you some advice, which you will retain, my dear children, as a paternal memorial, and which may be a valuable guide to you throughout your lives; at least, I hope and wish so. First, believe in God! I have a firm conviction of His existence. Second, possess unalterable principles of honor! Mark! I do not mean malleable and material principles; no, but those which are universally recognized as such by all people and nations, which do not alter with the changes of time, of country, of governments; I mean those principles which are eternal truths, absolute, immutable, not depending on any one's caprice. Pay attention to this. Everybody considers himself honorable; but this is not always seen in his acts, but instead of it we find deceit, hypocrisy, equivocation, and cunning words to injure others. This is what the greater part of men do, who regard the principles of honor as a piece of Indian rubber. When the true principles of honor have taken root in you, as I have explained, and that they are considered by you as the basis of public and private morality, you must necessarily be lovers of your country, honest, affectionate towards your parents, pure in your youth, pure and faithful to your husbands to whom you may be married; in fine, loving towards your children, and adorned with the finest qualities which can be desired in women destined by God and nature to embellish the life of man and to render his existence less miserable.

Gain as much instruction as you can, and inform yourselves well as to what belongs to the familiar or domestic life, and recollect that the greater part of the crimes and errors of men proceed from ignorance, that enemy to civilization, progress, honor and the liberty of nations. Remember, that as soon as you can use your intellectual faculties the world will seem a paradise to you; everything will smile on you; it will seem like a beautiful Spring full of sweet-smelling and beautiful flowers, a Spring which promises everything lovely and dear that the imagination can conceive. All that is lovely will smile upon you, and your hearts will expand with sweet hopes and affections towards whatever fascinates you, towards the ideal—beauty, goodness and love, which, alas, in reality do not exist. My dear children, do not believe in or be dazzled by the appearance which this world will at first present to you. Be careful. It is but the appearance, the external surface which fascinates, and if you are dazzled by its witchcraft disappointment must come—and then—and then—you will find an immense void; a void which you would never have experienced if you had looked upon the world as it is; a void that will show you but too plainly that the world is full of rottenness, deceit and ingratitude; that we must not here seek the summit of felicity, but a tempered contentment. You will fall into despair—into tears—you will wish to retrace your steps, but you are too late. Give ear to these words which your father composes with tears in his eyes. I hope that you may never suffer the lightest of the misfortunes experienced by me, the least of the disappointments in friendship. If you marry, be careful how you make your selection; let him be honest, honorable, a lover of his country; let his heart be large, and let him be capable of true friendship, and be careful to return it on your part with conduct equally noble and an affection equally pure. Be faithful to the husband whom you select for your life-companion; let the very thought of infidelity strike you with horror; destroy yourselves rather than fall into that fault; an error like that nothing can ever remedy; the pardon which which might be conceded does not remedy the evil; in you remains an eternal stain, in the husband an eternal rancor—an eternal remembrance of your guilt, of your dishonesty; remember that such an action on the wife's part poisons the husband's existence, if he has a heart or a feeling of honor; that it extinguishes domestic peace forever; that it destroys domestic tranquility; that it causes the love and sweetness which should exist between husband and wife to cease, cools and abates the love of the parent for his child; that it, in fact, casts dishonor upon the husband, upon you, upon all the family. Take care of yourselves, and keep this as a general maxim, that the greater part of men are bad and wicked; and, lastly, in leisure moments cultivate your minds with pleasing and moral reading, which will have the effect of guiding your minds early towards good, and nourishing you with the fruit of wisdom. Do I weary you with this long letter? Pardon me! I must have written to you, even if I had not wished. These lines have been the first and may be the last I shall ever address to you, and, as you perceive, they are written by the hand of your unhappy father.

May you have a serene and a long life! Take a thousand and a thousand kisses from your father, who carries with him the pain of not being able to see and embrace you, impeded by the infamy of men. Receive the paternal benediction of your

FELICE ORSINI.

Farewell, farewell, farewell from my heart.

Mr. Lander and the Emperor of the French.

To the Editor of the Times.

SIR: In your paper of yesterday, March 15, I find my name mentioned by Mr. ALLSOP as offering a sum of money for the assassination of the Emperor NAPOLEON. Never have I countenanced any assassination whatsoever. Assassination I consider as the basest of crimes—tyrannicide as the sublimest of virtues, it being self-immolation for a man's native country. Beyond that country it would be murder. It strikes him down who hath subverted its laws and stands above them on their ruins. Now, whoever is above them is out of them; in one word, an outlaw.

The Emperor NAPOLEON is the most legitimate sovran in the universe, having been chosen by a greater number of suffrages than ever was one before; whereas the wretched and infamous Government which he overthrew annulled those which itself had recently called forth and consecrated. It was not he who planned and executed the invasion of the Roman State, the sister Republic, coming by stealth in the garb of amity, and perpetrating an assassination a hundred-fold more extensive than the Parisian. No, it was not he; it was those small, restless, wriggling creatures which showed their heads out of their burrows in the crevices of the old Republic. It was politicians like LAMARTINE and CHANGARNIER—first-rate in chatter, second-rate in literature, third-rate in public confidence, These people had abjured all ambition, all encroachment, all interference with the Territory or Government of other nations; yet attempted to wrest Savoy from Sardinia.

So far am I from desiring the overthrow of NAPOLEON, I should regret the loss to Europe of the most energetic and sagacious potentate that ever governed any portion of it, excepting the great Protector and the great Stadtholder. To England the loss would be peculiarly deplorable, since we may rely on him, and on him only, for the continuance of peace.

Personally I never had intimacy or connection with Democratic strangers; I detest and abominate Democracy, the destroyer of republics. The political system requires an immovable centre. Queen ELIZABETH, in a speech before Parliament, called the Government "our Commonwealth." In my opinion the wisest was the Venetian, where gentlemen who had honor to lose, and nothing to gain, were the rulers, and wise heads directed strong arms without oscillation. I never take the trouble to defend my opinions, but I will repeat them, as I have often done. Again, I declare that whoever slays unjustly is justly slain. Would ALGERNON SIDNEY, or the still greater MILTON, controvert this axiom? Are the writers who pertinaciously oppose them wiser or more virtuous than they? Let me never be confounded with the enemies or the partisans of NAPOLEON. Frequently, and for many years, I enjoyed his conversation, and I heartily wish him a long life and a long succession. He knows enough of me to be convinced that I care little for rank, for power, or for popularity, and that it is quite enough for me to be as retired and obscure as any man in England.

MARCH 16. WALTER SAVAGE LANDOR.

Visit of the Emperor and Empress to the Opera.

Paris (March 18) Correspondence of the London Times.

For the first time since the attempt of the 14th of January, the Emperor and Empress visited the French Opera, in the Rue Lepelletier, last night. The crowds were about the same as usual, but the precautions taken were of a stricter character. For instance, about half an hour before his Majesty arrived, the street was completely cleared; no group of persons was allowed to remain opposite the entrance; and no persons allowed to stand at the corner of the Rue Rossini. The head of the Rue Lepelletier was also cleared, and the crowd compelled to fall back about twenty paces on the Boulevards from the edge of the pathway. A chain of sentinels was stationed on both sides, en échelon, on the pathway, and the middle of the street was patrolled now and then to keep it clear, while a picket was stationed from the corner of the street to the Rue de la Paix. The front of the theatre and the corners of the streets were, as usual, illuminated with gas. The Emperor and Empress arrived about 8½ o'clock. The carriage was preceded by five or six lancers, with an escort of about twenty-six or thirty; not more than the ordinary number followed. The Emperor did not leave the Opera till past 12. The same precautions were employed on his departure as on his arrival. The crowd mustered as usual, on both sides of the Boulevards.

France and Foreign States.

From the Moniteur.

Some foreign journals seem astonished that France should have requested the continental and bordering powers to send away dangerous refugees from her frontiers. Thus acting, France only made use of the right of international law. No one was astonished that Switzerland, last year, requested the French Government to send into the interior the refugees who desired a restoration of royalty at Neufchatel. Nor was any one surprised that Spain should have asked us to send into the interior the Carlist refugees, and that the Cortes should have thanked the Emperor for having, by such a step, prevented a civil war. The conduct of France has, therefore, been guided by the universally-acknowledged principles of international law.

The French Police.

From the Moniteur.

In its number of the 15th of March, the Times pretends that the French Police penetrates into the domestic circle, and causes anxiety and mistrust in the relations of private families. It adds, that it regrets the days when it could not refuse its admiration to the noble confidence of the Emperor "who drove his own phæton," and who never goes out unless guarded by squadrons. It will suffice to mention such assertions to refute them. Never was the French Police less inquisitorial than at the present moment. If its zeal has been doubted since the attempt of the 14th of January, those who regret the failure of that attempt are the only persons to complain. As regards the assertion respecting the Emperor, everyone knows that His Majesty has made no change in his usual habits, and that he drives out daily without an escort. It is curious that the Times, which has so many sources of good information, should entertain the English public with such false statements.

Adjustment of the Quarrel Between Spain and Mexico.

The España, of Madrid, publishes the following as the complete answer made on the 11th by M. Isturitz, President of the Council of Ministers, to the question of M. Mazo, on the Mexican question:

The Government, he said, after the remarks of M. Mazo, is under the necessity of making some explanations. It does not echo the cry of war raised by the Deputy against Mexico. The relations between Spain and Mexico are not yet of a hostile nature. There exists differences, but they can be terminated as well by negotiations as by a resort to arms.

The Government believes that all the ministers of preceding cabinets were animated by sentiments of patriotism and prudence. Thus it repudiates the accusations levelled against them by M. Mazo. Two questions exist with regard to Mexico: 1st That of indemnity due to Spaniards, on which the Mexican Government has acted with little reason; 2d The events at Cuernavaca.

A Mexican Envoy was sent here; he was not officially received; and to-day the affair is pending under the offer from France and England, to intervene to prevent a disastrous war, not only for us, but one that would endanger the relations between Europe and America.

This is the condition in which the Government has found the question. While it remains within the limits of mediation, the Government cannot produce the documents asked for; when it exceeds these limits the Government will produce the papers if the House wishes it.

Serious events have just occurred in Mexico. Comonfort has fallen; he has been replaced by General Zuloaga; and some departments though a small number, have resisted this nomination. M. Zuloaga has promised Spain that satisfaction which her due.

M. Lafragua, the Mexican Envoy, having been recalled, another representative will be named in his place. Consequently, the Government is of opinion that all discussion upon this matter would be inopportune.

M. Mazo replied that as the Minister had recently received news of a desire to give satisfaction to Spain, he withdrew his question. The subject then dropped.

Letter from Lady Havelock.

At a meeting of the Birmingham Town Council, the following letter from Lady Havelock was read:

Bonn, on the Rhine, Thursday, March 11, 1858.

Sir: I have this week had the honor to receive your letter, accompanied by an address of condolence from yourself, the aldermen and burgesses of the borough of Birmingham. I was already prepared for such a mark of attention by a letter from your town, intimating the same, but the deep sympathy expressed for me in my bereavement, the kind sentiments felt in my behalf and that of my fatherless children, by so large and respectable a body, and the elegant and very delicate manner in which this address has been conveyed to me, have quite overpowered me, and I cannot find words to express all I feel. The high encomiums you have been pleased to pass upon the heroic deeds of Sir Henry Havelock, as a soldier and a general, and the exalted terms in which you have spoken of my beloved husband as a man, are like sweet incense to my broken and afflicted heart, not merely because the praises of those we love are ever precious to us, but because I am so well aware that the portraiture of his almost perfect character is by no means overdrawn, and the experience of more than eight-and-twenty years of domestic happiness only serves to strengthen this opinion. But I thank my Heavenly Father that, even in this crushing and unexpected bereavement, I have many sources of comfort. Our gracious Sovereign has provided bountifully for my wants, my sons are nobly following the bright example of their father, and my two daughters are my best earthly treasures. A shade of regret might intrude if I were to reflect on the altered prospects of my fatherless children, but I cannot for a moment indulge in vain regrets, for our Heavenly Father ordains all things for the best, and I have too much confidence in my husband's countrymen to suppose that they can ever cease to take an interest in the children of Henry Havelock. May I beg you will do me the honor to convey my heartfelt thanks to the Corporation of Birmingham, and to believe me, with every feeling of respect, to be,

Yours, very gratefully,
HANNAH S. HAVELOCK.

J. Ratcliff, Esq., Mayor of Birmingham.

Outbreak of War between China and Russia.

Berlin (March 16) Correspondence of the London Times.

Recent advices from St. Petersburg put it now beyond doubt that the Chinese have commenced hostilities against the Russians. Admiral Putiatine is understood to have reported, in a dispatch dated on board his vessel anchored off Macao, that the advanced posts of the Russians, towards the mouth of the Amoor, had been attacked by the Chinese, and that so suddenly and with so overpowering a force, that the former had found themselves compelled to retreat 30 leagues up the river. The Chinese had thereupon destroyed the Russian settlement by fire. In the Pekin Gazette of Nov. 17, of last year, it was mentioned that, according to a statement made by a Chinese officer of rank, (Lin Hing,) the Chinese were already at that time at war with Russia.

The Sunken Ships at Sebastopol—The American Wrecking Ships Advertised for Sale.

From the Constantinople Correspondent of the London Times.

The schooner Silver Key and the steamer General Knox, belonging to the American Wrecking Companies which undertook to raise the vessels of war sunk in the harbor of Sebastopol, have returned to Constantinople, and are advertised for sale. The attempt to raise the sunken vessels has completely failed; not one of them was recovered. The Black Sea teredo, so often attributed to the well-calculated imagination of the Russian Admiralty, is a stern reality. It has eaten up the body of the Russian fleet, leaving only the outer shell. The wheel of the Twelve Apostles has been brought down as a specimen. Although it consisted of strong mahogany, two years and a half in the waters of Sebastopol have reduced its weight to almost nothing. No external change is visible beyond a few small holes, where the greedy miners sunk their shafts. The most approved contrivances were tried by two rival companies. The vessels were caulked and made seemingly water-tight, but when they came to pumping out it was found that the timber was so rotten that the water percolated everywhere through the galleries made by the teredo. To this in itself invincible difficulty must be added the fact that most of the vessels had sunk from four to six fathoms into the mud. Even if the ships had been raised, they would have been of no use. As they could not be raised, it was tried to blow them up, in order to clear the harbor, which at this moment is so blocked up that only a narrow channel marked out by buoys is left, through which small vessels can with difficulty wind their way. The damage done to the timber is, however, so great, that not even the attempt to blow the vessels up succeeded. As much as 5,000 pounds of powder was tried with a two-decker; but, as the rotten timber had too little power of resistance, the result was that the weakest point gave way, and the explosion tore out a small part in the side of the vessel, leaving the rest altogether untouched. The harbor must thus remain blocked up until by degrees the work of the teredo is done, and the ships fall to pieces. According to the account brought down, eighty-one vessels were found sunk, which is much more than ever was known or supposed. The Companies have brought up sufficient anchors, cables, &c., to pay, at any rate, part of their expenses, and probably the Russian Government will make up the difference.

The Very Latest.

By Telegraph from London to Liverpool.

London, Saturday, March 20.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

The Times endeavors to put an end to the discussion on this subject. It says, "The grenades flung down upon the pavement did not hurt the Emperor of the French, but they destroyed a British Government. It is a dispatch, however, that did the work. Walewski's fulminating powder has been more potent than Orsini's. But that mischief done—the scene of confusion cleared, both nations are much as they were, and it requires an extraordinary power of self-gratulation for the French journals, to claim a victory with permanent results, with new proofs of moderation, and with one notch more to the credit of France in the long controversy with England. On the showing of the French diplomats themselves, the victory, if there be one, is alike bloodless and barren. No offence was intended, none is now left,—nothing has been done, nothing was wanted to be done and the correspondence begins and ends in nothing."

REFORM OF THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

The Times, in noticing the intention of Government to appoint a Committee on the Consular service, says that Lord Malmesbury proposes a determination to reform the service of which he is the head. The Times adds, with respect to the great Embassies of Vienna and St. Petersburg, either vacant or about to be vacated, Florence held by an invalid partisan, and Dresden retained by an exemplary respectability, he will not want for opportunities of promoting rising talent.

ARRIVAL OF BARON BRUNOW.

His Excellency Baron Brunow, who left England on the declaration of war in 1854, having been appointed Ambassador at London, arrived at Dover from the Continent, and would on the 20th ult. reach the Embassy.

THE TRIAL AT NAPLES OF PARKES THE ENGINEER.

The Times says that a telegram from Naples, announcing that in consequence of the note delivered by the English Government, not only had Watt, the engineer, whose mind had become affected, been liberated, but that the King had given orders that the trial of Parkes should proceed with all possible dispatch, in order that he might be set at liberty, and enabled to return to England with his fellow-prisoner.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

From the Times City Article, Friday Evening, March 19.

There has been no material variation in the funds to-day, but they have been rather more firm. All the circumstances of the market are in favor of a steady advance in every description of securities; a result which would certainly be witnessed but for the increasing distrust of the course of the French Government. About £144,000 in Australian gold was taken to the Bank to-day. The stock of sovereigns at the Bank increases, and it is reported that the amount is larger than has been held at any former period. In the foreign exchanges this afternoon the rates upon Amsterdam and Hamburg were slightly higher. Paris was about the same as last post.

From the Daily News City Article.

The funds to-day were inanimate, but steady. The closing quotation of Consols was about 1-16 up above that of yesterday. The other departments of the Stock Exchange were likewise very dull, with little change in price. English Railway stocks exhibited increased depression.

THE CHINA MAILS.

EXPEDITION OF THE ALLIES UP THE PEI-HO—STATE OF CANTON.

Marseilles—Friday night.

The news brought by the Valetta is from Canton to the 28th of January. No reply has been made by the Emperor of China to the notification of the allied Plenipotentiaries. The allied forces will, therefore, descend the Pei-Ho River with a flotilla of gunboats, a battalion of French marines, 400 strong, with 1,000 English marines, and a force of blue-jackets from the garrison of Canton. The rich people who left the city are returning with their treasure, and the same is the case with the leading merchants.

THE BOMBAY MAIL.

This mail arrived at Dover from Calais at 5 on the morning of the 20th, and was immediately dispatched to London.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Marseilles dispatch states that the English are erecting strong works on the Island of Perim.

The Daily News says that a telegram reports a further deficiency in the shipment of tea from China.

Paris, Friday night.—The funds slightly improved to-day. The Three Per Cents closed at 59@60.

Madrid, Thursday.—Proclamations have been issued recommending the people to follow the example of the insurgents at Chalons, but were treated by the people with indifference.

BARING BROTHERS.

Liverpool Markets.

Per Persia.] Liverpool, Friday, March 19, 1858.

Cotton—The market opened dull, and has progressively become weaker from day to day, until a decline of ⅛d.@¼d. on Middling, and of ⅜d.@½d. on lower descriptions has been freely submitted to. The transactions have been unimportant, and limited mainly to the wants of the trade, who have supplied themselves from Middling qualities; towards the close, however, there was some disposition to purchase on speculatian, but thus far the purchases (except of lots to arrive) have been occasional, and not of sufficient importance to influence prices. At the moment, and for several days, Ordinary grades have been neglected, and as a consequence have suffered most in value. The accounts from Manchester and other manufacturing districts are very unsatisfactory, showing not only a falling off in trade, but the impossibility of progressing in the sale of either Goods or Yarns, except at concessions which would return heavy losses. We quote: Middling Orleans, 7⅛d.; Mobile, 7d.; Boweds, 6¾d. Present estimated stock 353,361 bales, including 243,088 American; that for corresponding date of last year 392,049 bales. The sales for the week are 31,210 bales, and those for to-day are estimated at 4,000.

Breadstuffs—The receipts of Foreign, particularly American, have been large; but as the Farmers' deliveries continue small, and the Country Markets have shown more or less firmness, there has been no pressure to sell, and, as a consequence, the market has preserved more than its wonted steadiness. For such Flour as St. Louis and New-Orleans Inspected, there has been a good trade from consumers, whilst the lower grades of American—say Western Canal and Baltimore—have been in increased demand for speculative purchases; but the medium descriptions, such as New-York Ohio, have met less favor, and have been difficult to place in quantity. The continued scarcity of really Prime Wheat causes it to be more inquired for; but in other descriptions the trade has only been fair, at about the prices ruling the close of last week. The late arrivals of Indian Corn have furnished a present ample supply, and as there has been some disposition to realize ex quay, prices have slightly receded, more on White than on either Mixed or Yellow. At to-day's Market there was only a small attendance, and business limited. Choice New-Orleans Flour sold slowly at 27s.@28s.; New-York Ohio brought 23s. 6d.@25s.; Western Canal, 21s. 6d.@23s. Spring Wheat, 6s.; Red, 6s. 3d.@7s.; White, 7s.@7s. 6d. Indian Corn, 34s. for Yellow and Mixed, and 33s. 6d. for White.

Sugar—In the beginning of the week there was a fair demand at steady prices; but as the London Market gave way under large arrivals and free offerings, prices have showed weakness, and the trade become quiet—business being limited to the direct wants of consumers. At the close the Market betokens a lower range of values.

Tobacco—The Market continues very quiet, the business being confined to retail sales of Virginia Leaf and Strips for Ireland, and of Western Strips and Maryland to the trade. Prices are quite unchanged.

Provisions—As yet few samples of the late receipts of American Bacon have been under offer, and as a consequence there has been no test of the Market, except in the occasional retail sales to the trade, which continue to be made, as during last week, at 46s.@46s. 6d. for Cumberland, 45s.@46s. for Long, and 48s. for Short; Prime Mess Pork, if good, brings 70s.@72. 6d. Beef remains comparatively neglected, the quoted value being 90s.@95s. for Cleveland; 100s.@105s. for Chicago, and 125s.@130s. for India. The decline in Lard has led to more business, and sales of Old have been made at 48s.@49s., and of New at 50s.

Tallow—A decline of 1s. was submitted to in the early part of the week, but a better demand having arisen, the market has recovered, and closes firm at Friday's prices. The sales include St. Petersburg at 55s. to 56s. The London market is very steady at 56s. to 56s. 9d. on the spot; 53s. 6d. April to June.

JAMES HEWITT & CO.

Another Mail-Robber Arrested.—The Hartford Times says: "Letters from various towns in this State addressed to offices between New-London and Stonington, not having been received, it became evident that some depredator was at work; and Mr. Holbrook, the highly efficient special agent of the Department, undertook the discovery of the offender, and on Saturday arrested Royal Phelps, the mail-carrier on the route between New-London and Stonington. The robber is now in the jail at New-London. He is a married man, and has a wife and two children.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Decisions in Admiralty.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts.

SALVAGE—PURCHASE OF VESSEL BY SALVOR.

King Benjamin vs. The Schooner Watchman.—This was a libel for salvage compensation. The vessel was stranded off Fire Island in October, 1857. She was loaded with stone and sinking in the sand, and her master and crew considered her as bilged, and being unable to get her off abandoned her and sold her to the libelant for $187. The libelant employed men, and after working four days days succeeded in getting the vessel afloat.

Held by the Court, that the libelant's services would form a meritorious case of salvage, but the libelant having purchased the vessel while she was a wreck, could in no sense be regarded as a salvor in the sense of the maritime law. Otherwise the Court would be called upon to decree to him a share of the property saved, as compensation, and then decree the surplus to him as owner.

That the action is merely a proceeding by the libelant against himself, and its purpose cannot be to enforce a salvage reward for his services, but to obtain by the intervention of this Court a confirmation of the sale to him and of his title, and there is no authority in law for such a proceeding.

Libel dismissed.

For libelant, Mr. Thomas.

COLLISION—ANCHOR.

Adrian Kissam vs. The Brig Albert.—This was a libel filed by the owner of the canal boat Cyclops, to recover damages for injuries sustained by her by coming in contact with the anchor of the brig, which was lying at the end of Pier No. 4 East River, with her anchor casted on her starboard bow. The Cyclops had been towed down the North River, to be left in the slip between Piers Nos. 3 and 4. When she arrived the tide was slightly flood. She was cast off from the tow and a line from her was passed to a barge lying in the slip. The brig lay at the end of Pier No. 4, her stem projecting some twenty feet into the slip. The hauling of the barge to her berth was retarded until the tide had changed from flood to ebb, and ran with such strength that the boatmen failed in hauling her around the head of the brig to her berth, and she was dropped down and back, across the stem of the brig, resting against the anchor on her starboard bow, and secured there by her crew, with only a board placed between the anchor and the canal boat as a fender.

While the vessels were so lying, two of the large Sound steamers passed by, and the swell raised by them moved the barge and the brig so that the planking of the barge was ripped up, and damage was occasioned to her and her cargo.

The harbor regulations prohibit the carrying of anchors in the manner in which this one was placed.

Held by the Court—That when the connection of a vessel with a collision is wholly passive, and she has in no way by her voluntary action contributed to it, no decided case or recognized principle of the sea laws is known which subjects her to responsibility for its consequences.

That the brig, being rightfully at the end of the pier, not infringing upon the passage or berth of the barge, nor preventing her free movement, it cannot be said that the injury was occasioned by any wrongful aggression of the brig.

The crew of the barge elected to place their vessel in that position, and the manner of rigging the anchor, though a violation of a municipal ordinance, is not shown to have been the direct cause of the injury.

That the barge, by voluntarily taking that station, assumed the risks naturally incident to the position equally, whether arising from ordinary external causes, or the method in which the two vessels were connected. The libelant cannot cast the responsibility upon the brig, without proof of willful neglect or misconduct by the crew of the brig, occasioning the loss. Libel dismissed, with costs.

For libelant, Mr. Shufeldt; for claimant, Messrs. Barrett and Brinsmade.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—March 31.

Before Judge Hall.

Judge Hall rendered a decision this morning in the case brought by the United States to enjoin the sale of the Collins steamers—denying the motion for the injunction. His Honor's opinion is a lengthy one.

Beeves are sold by the estimated dead weight of the four quarters; the so-called "fifth quarter" (hide and tallow) is not reckoned in here as it is in Boston and some other cities. When cattle are weighed or estimated alive, the dead weight is reckoned at a certain number of pounds to the 100 ℔s. of live weight, as agreed upon. The general rule in this market for medium cattle is 56 ℔s. to the 100; 44 ℔s. being allowed for the "fifth quarter" and offal.

The average prices to-day, as compared with last week, are about ½c. higher.

We quote:

At Browning's, Chamberlin's and O'Brien's prices do not materially differ from those at Forty-fourth-street. Browning reports beeves at 7c.@10c. Chamberlin reports Beeves at 7c.@10c. O'Brien reports Beeves at 7½c.@9c.

REMARKS ON THE BEEF MARKET.

With a splendid day for out-door operations, and a little advance in prices owing to a smaller supply, the owners of cattle on sale at Forty-fourth-street to-day were in decidedly better spirits. The offerings at Allerton's for yesterday and to-day were 2,111, against 3,113 last week. The total City receipts, 2,792, against 3,646 last week. The superior quality and weights slightly diminish this apparent difference. The near approach of the close of Lent quickened the butchers somewhat, though this was partly counterbalanced by the large purchases at last Wednesday, made under the stimulus of an almost unprecedented low market. The Jewish Passover is now being observed by that sect, and many of their butchers were absent from to-day's market. The sales, however, opened yesterday at ¾c. advance, and these figures were attempted to be maintained this morning, but free sales were not made until the current price fell to about ½c. advance over the average of last week. A few of the best bullocks went pretty readily at ½c.@¾c. advance, or 10c.@10½c. The estimate of weights was generally in favor of the sellers to-day, and this, when marked, is generally equal to fully ½c. The yards were barely cleared at night, the entire day's transactions being an advance of about ½c. ⅌ ℔., net weight, upon last Wednesday's average rates, with a further allowance for the estimated weights being in favor of sellers.... There were some farmers in from the surrounding country buying for feeding, though we did not observe large purchases by them, as they came with calculations based upon last week's sales, and were not quite prepared for the advance.... The table above, shows that of the 2,111 cattle at Allerton's, 1,006, or nearly one-half, came from Illinois, and 727, or one-third of all, from Ohio. A few came from Virginia.... The Western dealers are beginning to count upon reduced freight charges. A brisk competition has already arisen at this end of the route. One line of propellers on the Hudson River offered to bring down cattle from Albany at 50 cents ⅌ head, when another line of boats, and also the Hudson River Railroad dropped down to 25 cents ⅌ head. The Erie Railroad of course reduced their through rates to corresponding figures, that is, to make the cost ⅌ head from Dunkirk and Buffalo to New-York, the same as by the lowest or opposition rates on the northern route. There are indications of a genera breaking up of the agreement between the various roads for a uniform through tariff. This will barely be advantageous to the railroads or cattle dealers in the long run, though the lower price of beef demands a reduction in the freight established last season.... We give in the following table, the derivation, owners, sellers, &c., of the principal lots offered at Forty-fourth-street, and in the succeeding special notes some items respecting quality of individual lots, sales, &c., which will aid the distant reader in forming a fair opinion of the general character of to-day's transactions. These tables, &c., are condensed from copious notes made during a personal examination of the yards, continued through the entire day:

I. Claypool contributed 60 medium to common Ohio steers, rated 600 ℔s. net., which W. H. Harris sold in a lot at $53 ⅌ head.

B. F. Renick, of Ross County, Ohio, had a very fair lot of steers, fed by himself. C. G. Teed was getting 9c.@9½c.; for a few of them 10c. ⅌ ℔. There were 75 of them; home weight 1,428 ℔s. gross.

I. B. Bush forwarded 50 medium-fleshed, but rather nice Ohio steers, which T. Wheeler sold at about 9c. ⅌ ℔. E. Kelley, of Putnam County, took 22 at $65 each, for country feeding.

R. Murray sold on his own account, 50 fair Ohio steers, rated 650 ℔s. net, at 9c.@10c., and 21 good Virginians for Allerton & Co. at 9½c.@10c. Estimated weight, 950 ℔s. net.

J. Crouse had 61 fair Ohio cattle on sale, by Mead & Holcomb, at an average of 9c. Rated 700 ℔s. net.

J. P. Dorson's 40 Warren County, Ind., cattle were bringing 9c.@9½c., by Martin & Valentine. A few of them were very heavy, rating at 2,500 to 2,600 a single bullock. Seven of them brought $107 each.

Ayrault & Brother were selling for J. Sumner 74 fair Illinois steers, at 9c.@10c., and for J. Nichols 70 rather coarse cattle at 9c.

J. McKinley brought in 69 cattle of his own feeding, in Pickaway County, Ohio, which Westheimer & Brother were running out at 8c.@10½c. They ranged from medium to very good in quality.

Allerton & Myers were selling for Wagner & Bro. 41 good cattle, fed by themselves in Warren County, Ind., at 9½c.; home weight 1,600 ℔s., gross. Also, for Wagner & Knaur, 53 fine fat cattle, from the same county, at 9¾c. These were heavy bullocks, weighing by estimate 975 ℔s., net.

Budlong & Eastman had two lots on sale, one of 77 Kentucky Cattle for Todd & Nichols, at 8c.@10c., and the other consisting of 71 light Illinois Steers for H. W. Taylor, were averaging $53 each, on an estimated weight of 650 ℔s. net.

Miller, Haring & Gurney sold for Boyd, Jones and others, a mixed lot of Indiana, Ohio and State Cattle at 8¾c. They sold at Bergen 156 head for various parties at 8c.@10c.

D. G. Culver sold 26 of his own prime Ohio cattle at 10c. Average weight, 900 ℔s., net, and No. 1 in quality.

M. Dalton sold for W. H. Taylor 26 light and thin Illinois steers, for 8c.

Alexander & Virgin forwarded 104 medium-fleshed Illinois steers, for which S. Ulery was getting 8c.@10c. Rated 725 ℔s. net.

Wm. H. Belden sold 78 very good Illinois steers of J. J. DeForest's, feeding, at 9½c.@10c. Belden had previously purchased them.

Jas. Perrill contributed 111 nice Ohio steers, rated 725 ℔s., which J. A. Merritt was disposing of at 9c.@10c.

B. Bartram, for P. Platter of Ross County, Ohio, 64 handy, well-fed Steers, mostly at 10c. They were a prime lot, weighing, by estimate, 725 ℔s. net.

A. Renick brought on 66 cattle of his own feeding, Ross County, Ohio, for which White & Son were getting 9c.@10c. They were mainly very good cattle. Home weight, 1,600 ℔s. Mr. Renick sold in Albany one pair for $290, which weighed 4,600 ℔s. gross at home.

Shepard & Carey sold for J. Begole 16 fine bullocks from Livingston County, N. Y., at 9c.@10½c. They were A No. 1 for the day, weighing by estimate, 750 ℔s. net. Six, rated at 900 ℔s. each, were taken by Z. Pearsall, at $95 each, or fully 10½c.

MILCH COWS WITH CALVES.

Milch Cows are sold at each of the above yards, usually with their Calves at their sides. The prices vary somewhat with the supply and demand, and vary greatly, of course, upon the milking value. The particular fancy of the buyer has also considerable to do with the price. Not unfrequently a Cow is sold at $90@$100, or even $120. The general price throughout the year for ordinary Cows is $30 to $40, or $50. Quite a number sell above $50, and more, perhaps, below $30. We often see apologies for Cows go at $20@$25. The weekly reports from the different yards will give the weekly fluctuations.

The receipts are not large, nor are many wanted. Cows are worth more in the country than here. The milk stables are well nigh filled with fat Cows, which the comparatively low prices of Beeves induce the owners to retain. They purchase fresh Cows sparingly while these remain.

Allerton reports receipts of 20 fresh Cows, which sold slowly at $25@$30 for common, $30@$35 for good animals, and $40@$50 for extras. One very extra Cow brought in by P. Mimnaugh, sold for $75. The Allertons bought her in, to resell again. She is a splendid animal, a cross of the Ayreshire and native, and judged to weigh 1,400 ℔s. gross.

Browning reports receipts of 53 Milch Cows, selling at $25@$30 for common; $30@$40 for good, with a few extra animals at $50. Thos. Geoghegan brought in 39 fine Cows from Wayne County, N. Y., most of which have been sold at an average of $47 50 each. The supply, both in numbers and quality, exceeds that of last week. Prices are about the same.

Chamberlin reports 33 Milch Cows, selling at $25@$30 for common; $35@$40 for good; and $45@$60 for extras. Market continues dull, with a full supply offering.

O'Brien reports 94 Milch Cows, selling at $25@$30 for common; $35@$45 for good. A few bring $50@$55. No fancy Cows have been offered. There are a sufficient number in market, and sales are slow.

VEAL CALVES.

Veal Calves are sold by live weight, each animal being weighed alive at the time of sale. "Bobs"—that is, Calves a few days old—are usually sold by the head at such prices as can be agreed upon, sometimes for but little more than the skin is worth. The principal places of sale are Allerton's, Browning's, Chamberlin's and O'Brien's.

Receipts have been large for the past week and prices have declined fully ½c. ⅌ ℔. Many very young Calves are now being brought in and sold at $1@$1 50 each, some of them to feed for awhile, but more to be peddled out rather secretly as cheap meat.

Allerton reports receipts of 538 Veal Calves, selling at 4c.@6½c. A few of the finest brought 7c. Market largely supplied and sales dull. "Kittens" slow at almost nothing. Several lots sold for $1 ⅌ head, so that tender veal must be cheap somewhere.

Browning reports receipts of 78 Veal Calves, selling generally at 3c.@6½c. Market abundantly supplied, and sales slow at low prices. "Bobs" plenty and cheap.

Chamberlin reports receipts of 69 Veal Calves, selling at 5c.@6c. Stock of fair quality, with a slow demand. Market abundantly supplied.

O'Brien reports receipts of 62 Veal Calves, selling at 5½c.@7¼c. Sufficient supply and a fair demand for good Calves. "Bobs" are very dull at $2@$2 25 each.

SHEEP.

These are chiefly sold at Allerton's, Browning's, and Chamberlin's, at so much ⅌ head for a particular lot of Sheep or Lambs, or of the two together. They are also frequently sold by live weight as this is readily ascertained. The actual prices at the different yards seldom vary greatly. The difference in reputed prices is generally due to variation in the quality. When they are sold by weight, it is usually the net weight, which is ordinarily one-half what they weigh when alive, the pelt and offal making the other half. If fat and small-boned, they will dress 55 ℔s., and in some cases 60 ℔s., ⅌ hundred. The average run is about one-half the live weight.

The receipts show a gain over last week of about 1,000 head. The market is, however, scantily supplied with live sheep, and prices are rather advancing. The receipts will remain light until after the shearing season. A few lots of sheared sheep and some young lambs made their appearance simultaneously for the first time.

SWINE.

These are sold alive at so much ⅌ ℔. gross or live weight. Considerable numbers are sold at Allerton's, Forty-fourth-street, and at various other yards, while large droves are sold direct from the cars or boats, and driven immediately to the various slaughter-houses.

Receipts have been light the past week, and prices have advanced ½c.@¾c. ⅌ ℔. Very few are now wanted, as the warm weather approaches, and with the first free arrivals prices must decline. Packers will scarcely purchase at the present rates.

Allerton reports receipts of no Hogs. The quotations are for corn Hogs, 6c.@6¾c., live, and 8c.@8½c., dressed weight.

Allerton reports receipts of 83 Sheep, selling at 10c.@11c., and a few 12c. ⅌ ℔., net weight. Among the very few in market were two lots of sheared Sheep, which came 100 miles North, too. We think the owner should have dressed in his Summer suit to accompany them. Nothing is gained by such early shearing, especially of thin Sheep. They were thin enough with wool on to warrant leaving it.

Browning reports receipts of 1,218 Sheep, selling generally at 10c.@11c. ⅌ ℔., net weight; a few bring 11½c.@12c. Todd, of Albany County, had a quantity of fat Sheep, similar to those of last week. 92 sold for about 12c., net. The supply for to day was short, and the demand good. Receipts from New-York, New-Jersey, and 500 from Illinois. We notice the first appearance of Lambs at $5@$6, or 18c.@25c. ⅌ ℔., net.

Chamberlin reports receipts of 1,582 Sheep, selling at $3@$6 ⅌ head. The supply is rather short, with a demand at last week's figures.

Obituary.

Mr. Jonathan Bryan, a native of Philadelphia, but long a prominent resident of Charleston, died in the latter city last week, at the age of 83. He removed to Charleston in 1790, and devoted himself to mercantile pursuits. He was a son of Judge Bryan, of revolutionary fame.

An Alleged Engagement.—Among the spectators at the Boston Museum last week, to witness the tragedy of "Jane Shore," was an affectionate pair of lovers, who had visited the theatre evidently not for the purpose of seeing the play, but to pass away the time in sentimental proximity—in other words, in "courting." A young-looking fellow immediately behind them seemed much delighted with their fondness, and that the audience might not be in doubt concerning that of which he was convinced, he took from his seat a large placard, which he placed on their shoulders, (they were so near that this could be done.) On the placard was printed in large letters the word "Engaged." The act was seen by many, and "brought down the house."—Boston Journal.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

By the arrival of the Persia at this port early yesterday morning, we have received three days later advices from Europe. The news is not of an important character. Our Paris correspondent, whose letter we publish elsewhere, gives some additional details of the execution of PIERRI and ORSINI on the 13th ult. He describes some scenes and incidents which other writers have not touched upon. It seems to be generally conceded that the publication of the correspondence between Lord MALMESBURY and Count WALEWSKI has had an unsatisfactory effect. The tone of the London and Paris journals, in discussing the subject, is anything but friendly. On the 17th ult. the Emperor and Empress of the French visited the opera in the Rue Lepelletier for the first time since the attempted assassination. They were strongly guarded. From Spain we learn that on the 11th of March Mr. ISTURITY, President of the Council, in answer to a question, formally announced that Gen. ZULOAGA, the new Mexican President, had promised to give Spain every satisfaction. This is a substantial verification of a statement to the same effect made some time ago by our Havana correspondent. From China we learn that the Anglo-French Plenipotentiaries, having received no answer to their demands upon the Emperor, had determined to ascend the Pee-ho with a flotilla of gun-boats.

Our advices from South America, received by way of England, are interesting. The Yellow fever had reappeared at Rio with severity. Brazil was only waiting for the arrival of gun-boats from England to commence the war against Paraguay in earnest. In Montevideo, the revolution had been suppressed. A battle had been fought about eighty miles from the city, in which the opposition were utterly defeated and all their chief officers taken prisoners. They were condemned to death, and though the sentence was afterwards commuted, it was feared that the news had arrived too late.

In the U. S. Senate Mr. DOUGLAS presented the Constitution of Oregon, and also petitions for the organization of the Territory of Dacotah. Mr. BIGLER presented a memorial from AMOS KENDALL and others in behalf of the Morse Telegraph Company. Mr. WILSON reported a bill for the relief of EDWARD INGERSOLL. Mr. KING presented petitions for a break-water at Cape Vincent, N. Y. Referred to Judiciary Committee. The memorial to suspend the laws of Utah was transferred from the Judiciary to the Territorial Committee. The bill to create a fourth Assistant Postmaster-General was taken up, but the morning hour expired and discussion thereon was stopped. The Minnesota bill was next considered. Mr. POLK, of Missouri, moved that Minnesota be allowed three representatives, unconditionally. Lost—14 to 24. Mr. IVERSON, of Georgia, moved as an amendment that Minnesota have only one representative—the one who had the highest number of votes of the three elected—the other two to be allowed if the census shall show her entitled to them. Various amendments and propositions were offered by different Senators, all of which were voted down, and, finally, Mr. IVERSON's was adopted—yeas, 29; nays, 21. Without taking a vote on the bill, the Senate went into Executive Session, after which it adjourned. The House of Representatives, as it has done for many days past, went into Committee of the Whole on the Deficiency Bill. Mr. STEVENSON, of Kentucky, made a Lecompton speech. Mr. GILMER, of North Carolina, argued in favor of admitting Kansas without the Lecompton Constitution. Mr. MILLER, of South Carolina, was in favor of Lecompton. He considered the issue to be whether Slave States might hereafter be admitted. Mr. BURLINGAME, of Massachusetts scouted the threat of disunion, and applauded the firmness of the Douglas Democrats. Mr. PARROTT, the delegate from Kansas, energetically denounced the Lecompton Constitution. Mr. ROLLICOFFER of Tenn. made a Lecompton speech. The debate was continued by various members until a late hour. To-day is the day fixed upon for the vote to be taken, and our latest dispatches indicate that Lecompton will be defeated.

Various matters of interest were considered by the Legislature yesterday. In the Assembly, the bill to legalize certain acts of the Common Council of this City, relative to street-cleaning contracts, was killed on a call for the previous question, by 38 Yeas to 63 Nays.

The Mayor sent a communication to the Board of Aldermen, last evening, in relation to the act now before the Legislature to legalize a contract for cleaning the streets for five years at $345,000 a year, and recommending the adoption of a resolution directing the Corporation Counsel to remonstrate against its passage. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. C. J. WARREN, Property Clerk, has made a report to the Police Commissioners, from which it appears that more than 600 lots of stolen goods have been received at his office during the last nine months, some of which numbered even 200 valuable articles. The Commissioners have ordered a sale at auction of all them that can be lawfully sold. The sale will soon be advertised. The proceeds go to the fund for Widows and Orphans.

The fighting-men were before the Recorder yesterday, in large numbers, to witness the examination of CY SHAY and JOHN M. BRIGGS and his brother, for the brutal assault on MCCARTHY at the corner of Howard-street and Broadway, on the day of Paudeen's funeral. Some interesting testimony, bringing MARCUS CICERO STANLEY again before the public, was taken, and the case adjourned for further testimony.

A motion was made before the same Judge to quash the indictments found against PAUL MESTAYER, and others for obstructing Custom-house officials, on the ground that as a penalty was attached to the act, the parties could not be indicted therefor. The motion, however, was denied by the Court.

Judge HALL in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, made a decision denying the motion on the part of the Government for an injunction to prevent the sale of the Collins' steamships.

The General Markets, yesterday, exhibited more firmness for Flour, Corn, and Rye, which were in better request. Wheat was inactive and nominal. A limited business was transacted in Cotton at about ⅛c.@¼c. ℘ lb., off previous quotations. Coffee was quiet, while Sugars were in good demand. The auction sale of Teas was a spiritless one. Provisions presented no really new feature. Freights were depressed, with 642 vessels of all classes in port.

The Cattle Markets were not overstocked, yesterday, the total City receipts for the week being 2,792 against 3,646 the preceding week, and a weekly average during last year of 3,143. The large purchases made at the previous very low market, and the absence of the Jewish butchers for Passover week, limited the demand so much as to prevent any marked advance. The entire day's transactions were about ¼c. ℘ lb., on the estimated dressed weight, over the low average of last week's market. The yards were just cleared at sundown. A brisk competition has sprung up between the routes bringing cattle into the City, as detailed in our regular Live Stock Market report. Veal, or what is called Veal, is becoming quite abundant. There are large numbers of very young Calves now being sold, which the drovers appropriately name "Kittens," or "Bobs." The former term is most expressive of their value for meat. They are sold to somebody in considerable numbers, at $1@$1 25 each. They must make very tender "veal pies."

The Political Future—Drift of Political Parties.

The Journal of Commerce, since it became a vehement partisan paper, indulges largely in the perilous practice, so seductive to new beginners, of political prophecy. Yesterday's issue has the following specimen:

> "The TIMES thinks the vote of Thursday 'may make or unmake members of Congress,—build up one political party, and pull down another.' We, too, think such results may follow; and it does not require much sagacity to discover which party is likely to go down. Whether this is to be accomplished in ninety days, we do not know; but this we will say, viz., that if the Republican Party has any dying confessions to make, it cannot be too quick in freeing its mind. Time is precious, and should not be wasted."

The Journal is quite sure that the Republican Party is to be speedily and utterly extinguished. Upon what facts it bases this prediction it does not inform us; and we confess our inability just at present to discover any special evidence of its plausibility. A year ago the prospect was much more encouraging,—and we were inclined to think, as the Journal thinks now, that the mission of the Republican Party was substantially fulfilled,—that it had restored the just balance of power in the Federal Government, and that, by conforming to the manifest demands of the national sentiment, the Democratic Party would perpetuate its ascendency. Mr. BUCHANAN, at the outset of his administration, showed a marked deference to the popular sentiment, and a disposition to administer the government upon a basis of justice and equality. If he had persevered in this purpose,—if he had fully and faithfully carried into effect the policy marked out for Gov. WALKER, and insisted upon the submission of the Constitution to the people of Kansas, he would have consolidated the Democratic Party and given it a permanent hold on the confidence of the country. The Journal can hardly doubt that if he had done this, he would have had the earnest and hearty support of the unbroken Democracy of the Northern States,—and would have recovered to that party a large portion of the support lost to it in the disastrous campaign of 1856. Nor can the Journal even affect to doubt that his adoption of the Lecompton movement, and his forcing it as a party test upon the Democracy of the North, has demoralized and weakened that party immensely. There is not a single Northern State in which the party is anything like as strong as it was a year ago:—nor is there one in which a large majority of the party itself is not decidedly and resolutely opposed to the policy of the Administration upon the Kansas question. Mr. BUCHANAN came into power a year ago with a majority of forty in the House of Representatives: to-day's vote will probably show that, with all the prestige of his party and position, and with all the power and patronage at his disposal, the leading cardinal measure of his administration is rejected.

We should like to hear the Journal of Commerce explain how it finds in this, evidence of increasing strength and of the speedy extinction of the opposing party. It may say that the Republicans do not constitute that party, and are not to be credited therefore with its strength. This is very true, but it amounts to nothing. The fact that Republicans, Democrats and Americans are found united in opposition is indicative of the future reorganization of the Opposition party upon a broader basis than any one of its sections has occupied hitherto,—and of its consequent increase of strength and its certain success. The tendency of events now is to nationalize the Republican Party,—to place it upon a basis where it will enjoy the sympathy and the cooperation of Southern men,—to relieve it from the imputation of Sectionalism and to make it the national, conservative, Union party of the country. It has hitherto been an aggressive organization because the Government was in the hands of a section. It has seemed to wage war upon Slavery because Slavery had possession of the country. It appeared to be sectional because the Government was sectional, and made a sectional resistance to its just demands. But this phase of its existence is passing away, and conservative men, in both sections of the country, are perceiving the necessity of uniting to preserve the Government from the perils which threaten both alike. It is not for the interest or the honor of any portion of the Union, that the whole policy of the country,—foreign and domestic,—should be shaped and controlled by the ambition or the interests of the slaveholding class of our population. We have larger interests, more important aims, more pressing necessities than any connected with Slavery,—and it is high time they were receiving some attention at the hands of the Government. So long as it is in the hands, or under the dictation, of the clique of Pro-Slavery propagandists who have kept the country in constant turmoil on the subject of Slavery for the last ten or fifteen years, experience shows that all other interests will be sacrificed to this. We need men of larger views and wider aims at the head of public affairs.

So far, therefore, from agreeing with the Journal of Commerce in the belief that the Republican Party is dead or dying, we believe it is just entering upon a new and still more important stage of its existence. We have very little doubt that leading Southern men will be found in its ranks, shaping its organization, defining its purposes, correcting its errors, giving it conservatism and nationality of tone, and aiding to place it in control of the federal Government. The very fact of their accession, with that of Northern Democrats, will preserve it from the fact as well as from the suspicion of Abolitionism, and will make the question of Slavery one of subordinate and secondary importance. This seems to us the drift of the political current just now. What it will be a year hence, depends upon contingencies, and especially upon the action of the Administration. If Mr. BUCHANAN preseveres in the course which he is now pursuing, and the Democratic Party support him in so doing, nothing can prevent the Opposition from having a powerful majority in the next House of Representatives, and from carrying the Presidency in 1860.

A "Spirited British Minister" and the King of Naples.

Whenever an American citizen happens to get into a difficulty in the Chinese waters, on the Coast of Madagascar, or in the Sandwich Islands, our Government is always taunted with its cowardly and shameful indifference to the rights of Republicans; and the threatening face of the British lion is usually held up in terrorem to frighten a timid President, and startle a lazy Cabinet into emulation of that noble and watchful beast. "See," our people cry out, "See how England cares for her children—how she keeps her fleets in every sea—her representatives in every country to protect their meanest right—how Her Majesty's Ministers and Her Majesty's opposition are always agreed upon this one point that the British subject shall take no detriment from any foreign aggressor; while we, miserable, mean-spirited Yankees that we are, put up with the kicks of all the world for the chance of a few half-pence now and then."

All this is very humiliating, and we trust proportionably useful to our Democratic potentates. Our diplomacy is certainly not the strong point of our national administration, and we do not always look as sharply after our stray sons and daughters as we might, were they less ubiquitous than they are. If the fiction of the Britsh lion and his perpetual prowling round the world were at all likely to make our foreign ministers more attentive to their duties, and our home administration more careful in appointing them, we should be loth to disturb it, thinking with the old French historian, that "stories which tend to the power and majesty of the nation ought to be held as true, whether they be so or not."

But we look for no improvement in our amorphous corps diplomatique from this source, and we see, therefore, no reason for our refraining to read our neighbors a lesson in their turn. Immediately upon the fall of Lord PALMERSTON, we observed that the London Times took up quite warmly the case of two English engineers, imprisoned on a political charge, at at Naples, and urged it upon Lord MALMESBURY's attention with as much freshness of emotion as if it had occurred but the day before. It had, in fact, occurred months before the defeat of the Palmerston Ministry, and had been lingering for a long time in that terrible limbo of the Circumlocution Office, "the consideration of the Government." The new Foreign Secretary of Great Britain has not allowed himself, however, to be caught tripping on the matter. He has exerted himself with such effect as already to secure the liberation of one of the incarcerated Englishmen, and he has brought the whole question up and before the country in a form which must contribute all that was yet wanting to the utter annihilation of the great "Palmerston delusion." The men in question were engineers employed by a Sardinian steamer-company on board one of their vessels, the Cagliari. This vessel was chartered of the company by certain persons, Sicilians and others, who, after getting to sea, proved to be on a revolutionary trip against the Kingdom of Naples. A quarrel thereon ensued between the Sardinian captain of the steamer and the "general" of his passengers, for the Sardinian did not choose to compromise himself and his owners in the enterprise. He was finally compelled to land the revolutionists at a place called Sapri, and then turned his course towards Naples to explain his unwelcome connection with the affair. On the way he was overhauled by a Neapolitan man-of-war, seized, carried in a prisoner with all his crew, and cast into confinement. Sardinia immediately reclaimed her subjects, and the vessel that belonged to them. England, represented by Lord PALMERSTON, began a "diplomatic correspondence" on the subject of the English engineers, and the matter has gone on for month after month up to the present time, when Naples has brought the prisoners to trial, or at least those of their number who have survived the tender mercies of her prison system. When Sardinia is pressing energetically her rights in the affair, and when England has at last demanded an explanation of this long delay in the vindication of her national honor by the protection of two unoffending English subjects from illegal imprisonment in its most aggravated form, Lord PALMERSTON has been forced to an explanation, which we should think it hard for any Englishman to read without a blush of mingled shame and indignation. By his own confession, the Ex-Premier had "never sufficiently studied the matter"—he had accepted the statements of the Neapolitan authorities almost without inquiry—he had taken somebody's legal opinion in England about the business, but who the somebody was, or what was his opinion, does not now appear. And all this while, two Englishmen, guilty of no offence, were stifling in a noisome dungeon, where, beneath the combined influences of darkness, filth, and the horrible feeling that they were deserted by their country, the intellect of one and the health of both gave way! All this while, the gallant protest of the Sardinian Cabinet, England's faithful ally, and the foremost representative on the Continent of those "liberal" ideas of which Lord PALMERSTON was the professed defender and chief, was left unsupported by the voice of England, if it was not even contradicted by England's indifference. If this was the "spirit" of Lord PALMERSTON's Government we can hardly wonder that England should have revolted from its "want of spirit."

Lord DERBY will doubtless make the most of this opportunity for strengthening his position. Sardinia has more strongly than ever asserted her claims on his support by the firm and magnanimous attitude which King VICTOR EMANUEL has assumed before the Government of NAPOLEON III. He has refused, like England, to subject the laws of his realm to revision, at the dictate of France. In Sardinia, as in England, this refusal has brought on a Ministerial crisis; and Count CAVOUR, we are told, has shared the fate of Lord PALMERSTON. However this may prove to be, Sardinia is making common cause with England in the assertion of the rights of nations; and perhaps there was never an instance known of retribution more direct and severe than the fortune which compels Lord PALMERSTON to see his bitterest political antagonists taking and holding power upon two questions peculiarly germane to the policy which he himself had for years pretended to appropriate. He brought about the alliance with Sardinia, only to see Sardinia support a Tory Premier at one and the same time in administering a lesson of diplomacy to a Buonaparte at Paris, and in teaching decency to a Bourbon at Naples.

Fools and their Anger.

One of the wisest of the Proverbs of Solomon declares that the "wrath of a fool is presently known, but that a prudent man covereth shame." The sagacity of this apothegm is daily vindicated, not only in private but in public life; and in the recent difficulty between France and England it has received several noteworthy illustrations. The Count DE MORNY began the diplomatic dispute by an untimely and unstatesmanlike gratification of his own personal hatred against England and the English, which is well known to be one of the leading traits in his not very estimable character. All the prudence of his Imperial master has been tasked to undo the work done by this outburst of folly. Certain hot-headed young gentlemen, supposed to be employés of the English foreign office, followed up the game by forwarding to various French officers copies of Punch's caricature of a French Colonel crowing defiance at "perfidious Albion." This escapade, of which we gave an account some time since on the authority of a private letter from London, was next brought into superfluous prominence by the Committee of the Army and Navy Club, who offer a reward of £50 for the names of the parties to the affair; and now a certain Count DE LIGNY, an officer of the French army, has added his quota of confirmation to the dictum of the Hebrew monarch, by sending a challenge to Mr. ROEBUCK, on account of the terms applied by that invincible old gentleman to France and the French in the course of the debate which brought on the fall of Lord PALMERSTON. The member for Sheffield represents the largest constituency of cutlers in the world, and, should he think fit to take up the glove of the chivalric Count, ought to be able to bring a terrible array of sharp steel into the field.

Had all these foolish things been done in a private circle, they would be merely laughable. But they have been done "in the face of Europe," and may therefore breed more trouble than many wise men can allay. The Swedish Chancellor OXENSTIERNA sent his son abroad to see "with how little wisdom the world is governed." It is not less instructive to observe with how little wisdom the world may be convulsed, and the affairs of nations, that would of themselves have gone on quietly enough, thrown into hopeless confusion.

Far more than half the quarrels of the world are, in truth, mere misunderstandings; but this fact, so far from cheering the prospect of human affairs, sadly darkens it: for almost anything seems to be easier for men than the comprehension of the characters and motives of their fellow-men with whom they have to deal. The French in particular have always shown themselves singularly indisposed to penetrate the veil of foreign habits of thought and foreign modes of life. The famous "Comment peut-on être Persan" of MONTESQUIEU's letters has almost as pointed an application to the Paris of 1858 as to the Paris of 1720. Call a man a Persian and you only provoke a vague, incredulous kind of wonder that anybody should think of being born a Persian when he might have been born a Parisian. And a Persian being just as intelligible a thing to the Parisian as a Briton, the English objections to the Imperial diplomacy doubtless seem to the people of France nothing more nor less than the devices of a profound hostility against the Emperor and his country. In the last letter of M. GAILLARDET to the Courier des Etats Unis, we find a curious indication of this radical misapprehension of the English character. M. GAILLARDET is, to say the least of him, quite as well informed with regard to foreign nations, as most of the better class of his countrymen. With American affairs he is particularly familiar, and he has not seldom done us justice when we needed it, in various complications of opinion abroad. But even M. GAILLARDET, in speaking of the English Parliamentary crisis, falls into the odd assertion that Lord PALMERSTON and his friends have bound themselves "by an oath never to serve again with Lord JOHN RUSSELL." We can well believe that PAM and his cohort bear Lord JOHN no great good will—but the conception of the vivacious old Viscount clasping hands with his ejected supporters, and taking a solemn vow of eternal abstention from the society of "little Finality," is altogether and ludicrously new. Punch might employ his pencil to good purpose on such a subject. A Vehm-Gericht, or Carbonarism of old English politicians, masked, cloaked, and swearing like so many Hannibals, over a skull and dagger, is one of the best absurdities imaginable. And if an enlightened French publicist can pen such a sentence in good faith, what may we not imagine of the pictures which average Frenchmen must draw for themselves of an English Parliament and of English politics?

THE KANSAS QUESTION IN CONGRESS.—We seldom quarrel with the Express, or even complain of its misrepresentations. It has a chronic infirmity which prevents it from being accurate, even in quoting statements and opinions from other journals. Fortunately, this constitutional disability is so well understood by the public that no harm is ever done by its sprawling perversions of the language of its neighbors.

Yesterday's Express represents the TIMES as "indifferent" to the passage of the Lecompton bill,—and adds this lofty rebuke;

> "Whether the Lecomption Constitution is defeated or not, should not be a matter of indifference with any American citizen who respects the will of the people or desires to see maintained the good name and honor of the Congress of the United States."

The TIMES, as its readers know, has been quite as anxious as the Express or any other paper for the defeat of the Lecompton movement, and has urged the rejection of the Kansas bill upon every ground of justice and the public good. We have remonstrated against the consummation of the Lecompton fraud,—against forcing a Constitution upon an unwilling people,—and against committing Congress and the country to so flagrant a violation of honor and of justice. The only point upon which our course has differed from that of the Express is, that we have not thought it either necessary or right to rest our opposition to this measure upon false and untenable ground. Up to the time when Gen. CALHOUN decided to give certificates of election to the Free-State Legislature, we believed that the passage of this bill would plunge Kansas into civil war, and that the people could only escape the rule of a Pro-Slavery minority by revolutionary resistance. When it became certain that the Free-State Party would have full possession of the State Government, the grounds for this apprehension disappeared, and we then said, what we still believe, that "so far as Kansas is concerned, the result of the vote on the Lecompton Constitution is a matter of comparative indifference." But this certainly gives the Express no color of excuse for representing us as "indifferent" to the action of Congress upon that subject. We regard that action as of the utmost importance, and shall hope to be able to announce to-morrow morning the defeat of this great outrage by a decisive majority.

Railroad Tolls.

> "The Central Road did last year a freighting business of nearly four millions of dollars. All we ask is that it shall be so tolled that it shall contribute half a million per annum toward the completion of the Canals. Is it probable—is it possible—that its intelligent and capable managers will reject and repel a business of four millions per annum in order to avoid the payment to the State of half a million?"—N. Y. Tribune.

Certainly they will, if they have regard to the immediate interest of their road. The Central has been for years carrying freight below cost; and what does it avail that its gross receipts are four millions, if the net gain is nothing?

In order to compete with the Canal, the roads have put down their freight tariff below the line of expenses. Any one may see that this state of things cannot last, and that the sagacious business men who control them look forward to some other arrangement. To do business at a loss is, with them, not an end, but a means. What their real object is we need not here specify.

The imposition of tolls may well have the very effect which the Tribune thinks neither "probable" nor "possible." It may repel a business of four millions per annum. We do not say that it would immediately or necessarily produce that result; for we are not prepared to predict how long the Railroads may choose to carry freight for less than cost. But that tolls would eventually drive business away from the Central no well-informed person will question.

In respect to freights, the Railroads unquestionably possess advantages in some important respects. The chief of these consist in their superior speed, and in the fact that they are in operation during that large portion of the year in which the Canals are closed. But, on the other hand, the Canals, by their unrivaled cheapness, are beyond the reach of permanent competition. Notwithstanding all the unfavorable circumstances of the last few years, they have vastly exceeded the Railroads in the amount of their freightage. We are aware that a different impression has been made upon the public mind; yet a few facts and figures will easily settle the question.

In 1856 there was navigation for 214 days, and the total number of tons carried by canal was 4,116,082; while in the same year the aggregate tonnage of all the railroads competing with the Canals, (the Central, Erie, Oswego, Watertown and Ogdensburg,) was 2,067-851—less than half that of the Canals. In 1856 the freight of the Central was 776,112 tons—less than one-fifth the tonnage of the Canals.

We want the enlargement finished in the speediest manner; but let us not be deceived with the idea that the expense of its completion can be saddled upon the Railroads. They would break down under the burden.

Canal Payments.

In compliance with a resolution of the Senate, the Canal Auditor, on Monday, transmitted to that body a report:

> "The amount of drafts drawn on the Auditor by the Canal Commissioners from April 1, 1856, to Feb. 28, 1858, in payment upon contracts for the construction or enlargement of any of the Canals, was $6,191,270 04. The payments made by the Department on said drafts, during the same period, was $5,725,610 23. The drafts have exceeded the payments $465,659 81."

Senator BRANDRETH has introduced a bill providing that the sum of $465,659 81, remaining unpaid, and to meet which there is no money in the Treasury, be funded, that the State may pay interest thereon. The measure would be without precedent, and it may well be supposed that the contractors, who are the creditors in the case, are not on the whole, essentially damaged. It may also be assumed, that in taking their contracts, they had in view the possibility of an empty Treasury. Mr. BRANDRETH's bill will probably fail.

Obituary.

Mr. THOMAS TOOKE, F. R. S., has just died in London, at the advanced age of 81. Mr. TOOKE was one of the first statisticians of the age, and one of the ablest Economical writers of Great Britain. He had for some years been a corresponding member of the French Academy of Moral and Political Sciences: and he had just published, in collaboration with Mr. NEWMARCH, a work on the History of Prices, which is a treasury of sound thought and of practical wisdom upon the greatest financial questions of the age. Mr. TOOKE was one of the most firm and prominent supporters of the Bank Policy of Sir ROBERT PEEL, and was an authority of the first rank on all questions to which he had given his mind.

GENERAL WEBB AND THE REGULAR SERVICE.—The Richmond South, in commenting upon the charges of the Courier and Enquirer against the Secretary of War, mentions a visit of Gen. WEBB to the Secretary, and adds the following:

> "Then, by a sudden stroke of energetic importunity, he besought the Secretary to revoke an order whereby his son had been detailed for service against the Mormons in Utah. The request was unusual and unreasonable, and the Secretary promptly responded with a decisive negative. But the old gentleman would take no refusal. Against the Secretary's stern resolve he pleaded the affection of a father's heart, and, to give an irresistible effect to the application, a wife's tender solicitude was introduced in aid of the parental appeal. The Secretary of War is proverbially accessible to the claims of pity, and in a moment of amiable weakness he yielded to the old man's pathetic importunity. The son escaped the perils of the Utah expedition, and was detached to West Point, where he enjoys all the luxuries of domestic felicity, with the privileges and distinction of the regular service."

The South thinks it very hard that a recipient of the Secretary's favor should now accuse him of fraud in giving out the army contracts.

The War between Brazil and Paraguay—Yellow Fever at Rio Janiero—The Commercial Crisis—Suppression of the Revolution in Montevideo—Important Dispatch from the Foreign Minister.

By the arrival on the 16th ult. of the [illegible] Tyne at Southampton, England, we have [illegible] later news from the Brazils and the River P[illegible] dates are, Buenos Ayres Feb. 1, Montevideo [illegible] Janiero 14, and Pernambuco 21.

BRAZIL.

THE WAR WITH PARAGUAY—YELLOW FEVER AT RIO—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL NEWS.

According to advices from Rio, the Brazilians are collecting a large naval and military force at Montevideo, for the purpose of attacking Paraguay. They were only delaying the attack until the arrival of some gun-boats from England.

The yellow fever was very bad among the shipping at Rio de Janeiro, above five hundred seamen being in the hospital there from that fearful disease. Bahia and Pernambuco continued healthy. The malady, unhappily, broke out on board the Tyne while at Rio, and continued to prevail until the 6th inst., during which time nine deaths occurred, two of whom were passengers, viz.: Miss ELIZA BANNERMAN and Mr. W. HALL, both from Valparaiso. The other seven were among the crew. Mr. PHILIP WATKIN, a passenger from Rio, also died on board, on the 15th inst., from consumption.

The coffee-market at Rio had since last report recovered from the state of apathy prevailing for some months previous. A brisk business opened on the 15th of January, and continued to the 26th, sales during that time having amounted to 94,000 bags, latterly at some improvements in prices. Thence to the 5th ult. a calm ensued, buyers having retired from the market to await later accounts. Immediately after the arrival of the Tyne from England great animation was again developed, and 137,500 bags were disposed of thence to the 12th of daily improving prices, last quotations being 300rs. above the rate ruling on the 13th of January. A large portion of the above sales was for the purpose of remittance. The quality of the coffee, even of the better grades, left much to be desired, the natural brightness of color having been lost by long detention in warehouse.

Stocks were reduced to 120,000 bags, nearly the whole consisting of ordinary quality. The arrivals had been extremely limited, but as a better position of the article was again established increased supplies might henceforth be expected. The sales for the month reached in all to 231,500 bags, of which 134,000 were for the United States, 66,000 for the Channel and North of Europe, and 31,500 for the Mediterranean.

The Rio correspondent of the London Times, writing on the 13th of February, says:

The commercial crisis which has been felt so severely in Europe and the United States, has, so far, been lenient towards Rio de Janeiro. The large amount of protested bills brought by this steamer has naturally involved several houses here; among them we regret to notice the highly respectable and honorable firm of Messrs. E PACHER & Co., whose suspension has been brought about by the non-payment of something like 400,000 marcs banco, which they had remitted in German paper; and which the drawers here have been unable to take up. It is with pleasure we announce that their creditors here, duly appreciating the unfortunate events which have compelled these gentlemen to stop, have allowed the firm to continue its affairs, subject to conditions most flattering to the honor and integrity of the house. The Bank of Brazil reduced their rate of discount on the 11th inst. to 9 per cent. Money, out of doors, continues at 11 and 12 per cent. These high rates, combined with a low exchange, must influence very materially future imports; in fact, it appears to us that the business of this place has been far beyond the demands. The export trade has been of so speculative a character that we are only surprised that those who have anything to lose still venture, at present rates, on so risky an enterprise.

At Bahia import transactions had been somewhat limited during the month, and prices of most articles remained unaltered.

During the month, at Pernambuco, the import market has been dull. Dry goods especially have been heavy, and fair prices could not be obtained.

MONTEVIDEO.

SUPPRESSION OF THE REVOLUTION.

From Montevideo we learn that the revolt against the Government had been put down. A battle had been fought, and Generals DON CESAR DIAS and DON MANOEL FREIRE, 70 officers, and 315 soldiers taken prisoners. The two Generals, together with nearly 30 officers, were afterwards condemned to death. This sentence was, however, revoked; but as it would require some hours to get the news to the place of execution, it was scarcely probable to reach them in time to prevent the sentence being carried into effect.

The following dispatch, announcing the restoration of tranquillity, has been received by the Consul-General of the Uraguay, in England:

FOREIGN OFFICE, MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 3, 1858.

The undersigned, Minister for Foreign Affairs, has the pleasure of addressing the Consul-General of the Republic in England, to announce to him that the rebellion, which by the last packet he was informed had broken out in the Republic, with the support and encouragement given by the authorities of Buenos Ayres to the aggressions and expeditions which have been directed to our territory from that port, fortunately ended on the 28th ult., by the submission of all the rebel chiefs, officers, and soldiers, to the authority of the Government.

This joyful event, united to the energetic measures adopted by the constitutional authority of the country, will forever assure peace and the stability of the institutions of the Republic, already wearied with being the puppet of bastard ambitions and speculations framed beneath the shade of revolt.

The Government, strong in opinion, in the prestige of its authority, and in all the elements of the country, is enabled to occupy itself with, and realize in future all such measures as may contribute to the development of its wealth, and of the national prosperity.

This splendid result will prove to the Consul-General the correctness of the prognostications given by this office in its last dispatch, and of the reliance which it displayed on the moral and material power of the Government of the country, which will not be wanting in means to secure the exercise of the constitutional guarantees, founded on respect for the laws and the constituted authority.

The undersigned hopes, then, that the Consul-General will transmit this agreeable intelligence to all the agents in his district, and by means of the Press, to the inhabitants of the country in which he resides, in order to dissipate any mistaken impression which may have been produced on the public mind by private communications, or the malevolence of the evil-minded. In congratulating the Consul-General on this event, I have the pleasure of saluting him with the greatest considerations."

ANTONIO CARRERAS.

As the Minister makes no mention of the execution of the soldiers, there is ground to hope that the barbarous sentence was not carried into effect.

State of the Canals.

We have had an open Winter, and thus far, a pleasant Spring; both which facts are favorable to an early commencement of Canal navigation. Much work must always be done in March and April. When the ground is frozen this is necessarily performed at a disadvantage, the banks being filled with ice and snow. Such was the case last year, especially on the Western Division, where most of the new work was situated, and to such an extent that navigation could not be resumed before June.

This year, appearances and information concur in warranting the belief that by the 3d or 5th of May the Canals will be in full operation; and their condition so good that the disasters of former years will not be repeated. A prompt beginning and uninterrupted continuance of navigation will prove an incalculable benefit to the business community. We trust that the prevalent expectation in this regard may not be disappointed. Whatever may be said of Railroads—and we freely concede their immense value—the Canals are, and must remain the great avenues of transportation between the seaboard and the interior, and thus will increase, instead of impairing, the consideration in which the public holds them.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The last night of the season should be an interesting occasion, particularly as it is also the last night of MEYERBEER'S "Huguenots," and Herr FORMES. After a season of unprecedented success, the opera closes to-night, and Fourteenth-street will be deserted until Wednesday of next week, when Monsieur MUSARD commences his engagement as conductor of the promenade concerts and bals masqués.

☞ JAMES T. BRADY, Esq., delivers this evening the first of a series of Lectures upon the position of Women—their relations to Society and the State, of which the proceeds are to be devoted to the Shirt Sewers' Union. The interest of the subject, the utility of the object, and the ability of the lecturer, combine to give attractiveness to this lecture.

OREIDE.—An article styled "Gold Oréide Alloy," which was described in the TIMES of Feb. 27 as a recent French invention, has been patented both there and in this country. We make this statement in justice to a firm in this City, who hold the patent in the United States.

It has been decided to publish in Canada, a "Mirror of Parliament," similar to Hansard's in England. The estimated cost, including reporting and printing the speeches in the language in which they are delivered, is $12,000 per session.

A number of prominent Masons, having at heart the erection of a monument to ELISHA KENT KANE, met at the Clinton Place Hotel on Monday evening last. The Hon. ALEX. C. MORTON was called to the chair, and GEORGE O. BARTLETT, Esq., acted as Secretary. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported for President, the Hon. ROBERT L. DE COIN; for Vice-Presidents, Peter Stuyvesant, Esq., the Rev. Francis L. Hawks, D. D., Gen. George P. Morris, the Hon. Alex. C. Morton, Albert G. Mackey, M. D., the Hon. Charles Scott, Henry C. Banks, Esq., Capt. Albert Pike, the Hon. John H. White, Com. E. W. Moore, Sam'l C. Swarts, Esq.; for Recording Secretary, George O. Bartlett, Esq.; for Corresponding Secretary, Mr. Sidney Kopman; for Treasurer, S. A. Comstock, Esq. It is the intention of the Association to erect an enduring monument to the memory of Dr. KANE, to be placed in some central point in this City.

A large company assembled at the new Public School No. 33, on Twenty-eighth-street, yesterday, at 4 o'clock P. M., to witness the opening. Mr. WATERBURY made the opening address, and was followed by Mayor TIEMANN, Ex-Governor SEYMOUR, Mr. WILSON, CHARLES TRACY, Esq., Mr. TILLOU, Mr. RICHARD O'GORMAN, Professor MCELLIGOTT Mr. MCMURRAY and the City Superintendent, the Hon. S. S. RANDALL. The singing was conducted by Prof. COLLMER. The house was crowded with pupils and visitors. The Primary Department has an attendance of over 700, under the direction of Mrs. WHITE, Principal, and the Girls' Grammer School, under the charge of Mrs. C. M. EDWARDS, has an attendance of about 400 pupils.

The parties interested in the recent forgery of a check for $1,396 69 on the Tradesmen's Bank, purporting to be signed by the firm of DONOHOE & SONS, wholesale grocers, and passed on the firm of WELDEN & Co., wholesale liquor dealers, Pearl-street, met yesterday at the Recorder's office, where a preliminary examination was commenced, and adjourned without much of importance being done. The case promises to be one of importance.

The Commissioners of Emigration met yesterday, but did little more than adopt an unimportant report of the Committee on Castle Garden, and a remonstrance against EGERTON's bill, now before the Legislature, which proposes to admit emigrant runners into Castle Garden.

A row of wooden stables at No. 292 West Fifteenth-street, occupied by PATRICK SIMMONS, PATRICK MINOR and JOHN MCDONALD, were destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Loss, $200. It is thought that the buildings were set on fire.

The Bridgeport Advertiser says that FAIRCHILD, the person arrested in New-York for appropriating the funds of the Naugatuck Railroad was not a Conductor, but a Dépôt Agent.

The stables of Mr. GALLAGHER, No. 164 East Twenty-fifth-street, were slightly damaged by fire at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

Have we a Musard Among Us?

NEW-YORK, Monday, March 29, 1858.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Permit me to inquire whether the management of the Opera contemplate deliberate misrepresentation by palming off the MUSARD about to appear in this City, as the celebrated musician MUSARD, so thoroughly identified with the musical world of Paris?

It may be due to the public to inform them that this MUSARD is not the eminent musician of similar name, but a son of that talented gentleman. We are aware that neither musical nor mathematical genius is hereditary, while family appellations are; and consequently, although the Opera people have produced a MUSARD, the credulity of the people may be imposed upon from a representation of his being the MUSARD.

To assure you of the impossibility of my being mistaken in the identity of the gentleman, I will state that while I was a resident of the town of Auteuil France, MUSARD, the elder, had the honor of being Mayor of the place, and his son, the MUSARD now here, was an officer of the National Guard. For over a year I frequently encountered both within their official capacities.

M. MUSARD fils may be an equally great musician as his distinguished father; should the discernment of the New-Yorkers discover such to be the case, it will be a further verification of the antique adage concerning a prophet being without honor in his own country.

Respectfully yours,
THOS. PICTON.

Fashionable Sketches from Washington—Lent—Brilliant Fete at the Arsenal—An Indian Funeral—Art Matters, &c.—With Arabella's Opinions.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 30, 1858.

Dispensations are granted by the dignitaries of Mother Church "to all whose duties are of an exhausting or laborious nature," but the more elevated decimals of society are expected to pay due reverence to the edicts, Roman or Episcopal; so our ball-musicians rest from their labors, and the cooks brighten their casseroles for the coming Easter campaign. The Grand Turk's presence has somewhat dissipated this dullness, although, Dieu merci, we have not entertained him after the model set in your City by VAN TINE, BOOLE, PHILLIPS & Co., who have left a marked impression upon the Moslems.

Last week, President BUCHANAN entertained MOHAMMED PASHA, his suite and Consul SMITH, inviting to meet them Secretaries TOUCEY and COBB, Senator GWIN, Mayor MAGRUDER, and Messrs. SMITH, WILKES, MACAULEY, INGRAHAM and MURRAY of our Navy. Mrs. COBB sat at the right hand of the President, and Mrs. GWIN on his left hand, while MOHAMMED PASHA had the post of honor at Miss LANE's right, HASSAN BEY sitting next him to interpret. The dinner passed off very agreeably, as have others given to the Ottomans by Secretary TOUCEY, Chief-Justice TANEY and other dignitaries. The cuisines of the Metropolis are in excellent working order this Winter, and the market has been well supplied.

Yesterday, Secretary FLOYD escorted the Ottoman officers to the Washington Arsenal, which is in every way inferior to Topkhaneh, (the House of Cannon,) at Constantinople. The Turks wore their richly gold-embroidered uniforms, and their decorations, while Generals JESUP, HARNEY, PERSIFER SMITH, Surgeon-General LAWSON, Adjutant-General COOPER, Colonel TOTTEN, of the Engineers; Colonel CRAIG, of the Ordnance; Colonel LARNED, of the Paymastership; Colonel JOHNSON, of the Dragoons, and a dozen other officers of the Staff and the Line were in full toggery. Major BELL, the commandant of the Arsenal, received his visitors with an Admiral's salute from the field battery, after which he showed them everything of interest. The apparatus used for experiments in testing powder, and the recoil with different sized charges, was examined with apparent interest, as were the friction primers used for guns en barlette. The promenade through the workshops and other buildings was terminated at the eastern quay, where the patent fire-arms of SHARPE, COLT, BURNSIDE, MORSE and MAYNARD were tested. The Sharpe rifle, as fired by Colonel ROBERTS, was decidedly the most effective weapon. Major BEN MCCULLOUGH made some pretty good shots with COLT's revolving pistol, but the rifle did not answer the expectations formed of it.

Meanwhile carriages continued to arrive, and there was soon a large delegation of ladies from the West End, (including Arabella,) on the fine lawn, or rather grove, which slopes from the Commandant's quarters to the margin of the broad Potomac. After the firing, Secretary FLOYD and his Ottoman guests took a position near the quarters, and a detachment of ordnance soldiers formed a large circle in front of them—a living frame-work of gaily dressed ladies, officers in uniform, and civilians in undertaker-like black.

"All ready!" Bounding into the ring came about a score of annuity Sioux, headed by LITTLE CROW. They were in the full glory of new blankets and war-paint, with feather head-dresses, pipes, spears and tomahawks, and after a prolonged whooping, down they sat, or rather squatted, in a circle. LITTLE CROW then harangued them, informing them that they were expected to show how Indian braves danced over a scalp taken from an enemy, and at it they went, to the monotonous pound-pound-pound of one stick on a drum, with an equally monotonous chaunt! The Pasha well had reason to look astonished, for the saltatory dervishes of his native Scutari cannot equal a big Indian, taking his steps with evident pride and self-esteem. How the ladies present laughed at the idea of working so hard for pleasure—yet they, pretty birds, will dance the Lanciers until they can scarcely stand up. Arabella thinks the Lanciers was copied after one figure of this war-dance, even as the polka was suggested by the old scripture picture of King David dancing with his harp! So she says.

After the conclusion of the dance, the lady of a distinguished Senator asked for an exhibition of Indian oratory. So the red-men lighted their pipes, and smoked for a while in Quaker council, which was interrupted by LITTLE CROW, who advanced into the centre of the group, and delivered an impressive harangue, with oratorical grace and forcible gestures. It was a narration of the expedition headed by him self last year against the fillibustering band of INK-PA-DU-TAH, which had committed fearful ravages in Minnesota, killing 48 whites and carrying four white women into captivity. LITTLE CROW's party took savage vengeance, killing 11, and two of the women were rescued. The speech was horribly mangled by the interpreter, whose knowledge of Indian character is better, it is to be hoped, than the knowledge of English grammar he displayed, but he conveyed an idea of LITTLE CROW's meaning, and loud applause followed. Two of the Indians who had been indicated by him as having rescued a Miss GARDNER, were then called up and duly thanked for their gallant conduc.

The hospitality of the commandant's quarters was next extended to all present by Major BELL, who had ordered one of GAUTIER's best collations for the Christians and the Moslems, who all tossed off bumpers of champagne with jovial good feeling. The Indians to whom "fire-water," even when weak as is the juice of the grape, is defendu, enjoyed their coffee in another room. After which all went away wel, content.

HARRIET HOSMER's "Beatrice Cenci" has attracted goodly numbers to PHILP's Art Gallery, where it is being exhibited for the benefit of the artist, and where another gifted lady (now on a visit here) has kindly placed the works of her genius before the public eye. It is Mrs. Dr. BODICKON, (née BARBARA L. SMITH, daughter of an English M. P.,) who is now traveling through this country with her husband, an Algerian savant, and whose souvenirs de voyage, in water colors, are original and effective. Those on exhibition at PHILP's are scenes in the "Swamps of Louisiana," the moss covered "Groves near Savannah," "The English Coast," "Algiers," "The Coast of Africa," "Interior of Africa," "North Wales," and "North Devon." The accomplished artist had (so Arabella informs me) several of her sketches in the recent British Exhibition at your City.

HEALEY had intended to go from here to Virginia, and there paint JOHN TYLER for his collection of "Portraits of the Presidents," ordered by Government, but the severe illness of that gentleman prevented, and the artist has gone to Lindenwald to paint MARTIN VAN BUREN. I am decidedly of opinion that it would have been better to have divided this commission, and so had the pencils of ELLIOTT and SULLY and other artists employed. But the friends of Mr. HEALEY obtained the commission for him, and the Committee in giving it were doubtless not only actuated by his high artistic reputation, but by the assurance that he would promptly execute his work. It has been too often the case that artists have accepted commissions at a fixed price, commenced their work, spent their advances, and then whiningly begged for more money. This will not be the case with Mr. HEALEY, and it does not look well on the part of artists to grudgingly cry out against his employment, instead of showing the Committee of Congress that they also can be employed, and, if employed, will do their work as per contract, not cry out to Hercules for aid. Besides, (as Arabella suggests,) Mr. HEALEY has made the wives and daughters of our great men look so charmingly, on canvas, that he deserves to be rewarded.

Among the distinguished visitors here is Mr. PICKENS, of South Carolina, and his family, en route for St. Petersburg, where he is to represent the United States. On Thursday a grand diplomatic dinner party is to be given him at the Russian Legation here, by M. DE STOECKL, the popular representative of the Czar here.

ENOCH EASEL.

MOTT AT THE ELDRIDGE STREET JAIL.—JACOB H. MOTT is held in close custody in the Eldridge-street Jail. The impression that he has been bailed, or is only in the nominal custody of the Sheriff, is a mistake, as he has only been out of prison since his arrest on two or three occasions, when he went before the Recorder. The confinement wears upon him considerably, but the large amount of bail required renders his speedy release quite doubtful. His friends call to see him often; he reads the papers, eats his meals from the keeper's table, and retires at 10 o'clock with the rest of the prisoners. He is for the present in the custody of Sheriff WILLET.

ANOTHER STABBING AFFRAY.—A German named WILLIAM KOHLER, who resides at No. 45 Bowery, was stabbed several times about the face and head, about 12 o'clock last night, at the grocery, corner of Walker and Church streets, by a Fifth Ward rowdy, named ANDREW SHAW. KOHLER accused SHAW of taking a brush from his pocket. This accusation led to a dispute; whereupon, SHAW used his knife. The injuries inflicted are not fatal. The wounded man was taken to his home. SHAW was arrested by Officer Wm. Nessit, of the Fifth Precinct.

Sad History of a Young Female.

From the Milwaukee Daily Wisconsin.

We have some painful facts to narrate about a woman who was lately found in this City, in a most wretched and degraded condition. A simple sketch of her antecedents will show how rapid is one's going downward, after the first step is taken, and how mercilessly retribution follows after wrong-doing and crime.

The woman in question was, a few years since, a young lady in the seminary of Professor CRITTENDEN, in Brooklyn, N. Y. She was then a protégé of HENRY WARD BEECHER, lived with his family, and was being educated by him. Of course, she was placed under the most favorable circumstances, and had her every want, that was reasonable, gratified. She was surrounded by the very best of associations, and had been adopted by Mr. BEECHER, because of her natural brightness of disposition and intellect. In the school, though she was regarded as an eccentric and wayward being, yet she was admired by all of her companions for her superior quality of mind.

No young lady in Prof. CRITTENDEN's school, (one of the best in the East,) could write so brilliant and beautiful a composition as she, and all had to yield to her in intellectual inferiority. We have this from one who was a schoolmate of hers, that all her compositions were gems of thought and language, and she promised to become prominent as a female writer. Now comes the first circumstance that poisoned her happy heart. It is the old story of love. She became a passionate admirer of one who reciprocated her affections, but who was forbidden to tender his hand in marriage. He was already married to another. This first disappointment occasioned a violent brain fever, which completely prostrated her, and in the course of her recovery she was advised to resort to stimulants, by which she acquired a taste for what has since plunged her into the depths of degradation.

Afterwards she went to Boston, and became a teacher in a House of Refuge. It was an advantageous station for a lady of education and character, and she is said to have filled it, at first, with great promise of usefulness. Soon, however, she yielded to the appetite which she had planted within herself, when recovering from her previous illness, and she was picked up in the streets of Boston one night in a state of intoxication. Facilis descensus Averni. Efforts were made to effectually redeem her, but it is almost impossible to reclaim a woman once disgraced. She soon married, and as we have been informed, married against the wishes of those who had been her former friends and protectors. From this time she sinks rapidly, and whether by means of an avenging Deity, or from the natural laws of cause and effect, others may decide for themselves.

Three or four years elapse, and she came with her husband to Chicago last year. He found employment there, but in the great fire of last Fall his situation was lost to him. Pretty much all Winter long he remained destitute of work, pawning away his household goods and clothing meanwhile, and, when Spring came, they determined to come to Milwaukee. They had one child, and on their way here that was taken away from them, at Kenosha. Their poverty had now become lamentable, indeed, but, undoubtedly, their situation might have been much better, but for the accursed article of rum, to which they had both now become addicted. Having buried their child at Kenosha, they came on here, and hired a miserable room in the Third Ward of this city. A few days passed and the wretched woman whose career we have been sketching was forced to go out and beg from door to door. In the course of her alms-seeking she chanced upon one who had been her schoolmate in Brooklyn, and upon another who had known her in Boston. Fearing the worst, but still ignorant of what a wretched creature she had become, they went to her room where she and her husband were almost freezing and starving. She confessed to them that she had nothing to eat for three long days, and on their rickety old bed there was but a single sheet to protect them from the cold. There was a single chair, with but three legs to it, in the room, and scarcely any other articles of furniture cumbered up the room.

These friends at once began to exert themselves in her behalf, got others interested to aid her and her husband, gave them clothes and food, promised them both a plenty of work, and it seemed now that her destiny was taking a favorable turn. The woman wept over her poverty, manifested touching tokens of a reanimation, but here too the fire was only being smothered a few days, to break out again the first favorable opportunity. The money that was given her to buy food and clothing with, was spent in the rum hole, and when she was next visited she was found all demented by intoxication. From that time she turned her back upon all friendly offers of assistance, abandoned her first quarters, was afterwards found by the authorities in low houses of prostitution, and has now again left the city, in company with her husband. She has almost reached the lowest round of misery, and this once gifted young lady, an adopted child of HENRY WARD BEECHER, will soon find that peace in death, which she has been unable to find in the cup and in the corruption of licentiousness.

MESSRS. S. C. HERRING & Co.—Gentleman: On the night of the 17th inst., my store, No. 56 Maiden-lane, with my stock of merchandise, was entirely destroyed by fire. My loss, though heavy, would have been much more so, but that I was fortunate enough to have one of your Patent Champion Safes, which preserved uninjured my most valuable books, papers, and some bank notes, after being eighteen hours exposed to a very severe and scorching flame. My old papers, &c., which I could not find room in the safe for, were intrusted to a vault in the wall—they are a mass of ashes.

FRENCH WHITE ZINC PAINT,

MANUFACTURED BY THE VIEILLE MONTAGUE COMPANY, OF PARIS.

Consumers of Paint throughout the United States are invited to test the advantage of this Paint over that made from Lead—

FIRST—It is a clear and brilliant white, surpassing Lead in color as well as durability.

SECOND—It does not contain poisonous acids, which render apartments newly painted with Lead so unwholesome, causing painters' colic, &c., &c.

THIRD—It will not change color by exposure to bad air or gases, so that it lasts longer than Lead.

FOURTH—Although its first cost is rather greater than that of Lead, it will prove more economical in the end.

This Zinc can be used for old or new work wherever a durable pure white paint is wanted.

It should not be adulterated with American Zinc, as it renders it thin and injures the color.

Parties who desire to use this beautiful Paint may obtain information where it can be procured pure and unadulterated by applying to the Agents of the Company,

BANK NOTICES.

BOWERY SAVINGS BANK,
NEW YORK, March 30, 1858.
NOTICE.—THE DEPOSITORS ARE HEREBY NOtified that, on a revision of the By-Laws of this Institution, the 8th article thereof has been amended by the Board of Trustees, the same now forming the 5th section of article 6, and being as follows, viz.:
ARTICLE VI—Section 5.—Drafts may be made, personally, or by the order, in writing, of the Depositor, (if the Bank have the signature of the party on their signature book,) or by letters of attorney duly authenticated; but no person shall have the right to demand any part of his principal or interest without producing the original book, that the payments may be entered therein; nor shall any person have such right without previous notice to the Bank of his intention to make such demand, of thirty days for any amount not exceeding three hundred dollars, and of sixty days for any amount exceeding that sum. All deposits received by the Secretary shall be in money taken in deposit by the incorporated Banks of the City of New-York, at par; and all payments shall be made in the same manner.
The effect of this amendment is to allow Depositors to draw their moneys on any business day upon notice of thirty days, if the sum drawn is less than $300, and of sixty days if over that amount, instead of restricting them to the third Monday of each month and one week's previous notice.
In practice, Depositors have been permitted to draw at any time without notice. It is not intended, in ordinary times, to deviate from this practice. But in the event of a money panic the limitation to a single day, if enforced, would prevent many persons in actual need from the opportunity of drawing, and the Trustees have, therefore, with a view to the accommodation of all, made the above change, securing, however, beyond contingency, the interests of all the Depositors, by requiring the previous notice of thirty and sixty days, according to the amount intended to be drawn.
By direction of the Trustees,
THOMAS JEREMIAH, President.
G. H. COGGESHALL, Secretary.

As some persons afflicted with Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures Primary and Constitutional Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Seminal Emissions, Impotency, &c., may not be aware of the fact, he takes this medium of informing them that he is the only graduate in this City who is exclusively treating and curing those diseases, and whose connection with the European hospitals enables him to adopt the latest and most radical treatment, curing the oldest and most severe cases, at No. 82 Mercer-st., corner of Spring, opposite St. Nicholas Hotel, from 11 A. $500 REWARD.—DR. JEFFRIES' ANTIDOTE, a Specific Mixture for the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, and similar disorders. It makes a speedy cure, without the least restriction of diet, drink, exposure, or change in application to business. Further, the disease cannot be contracted if a dose of the Antidote is taken when exposed. Repeated experiments and long experience have proved that it will radically cure any case that can be produced. This desirable result is obtained in from two to ten days; and as it neither creates nausea nor offends the palate, and renders unnecessary all deviation in diet or interruption to usual pursuits, sound sleep or healthy digestion, the disease is thus removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure. Its ingredients are entirely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by its use.

The Fighting-Men Before the Recorder—The Assault on MacCarthy by Hines, Briggs and Others, in Howard-street.

Yesterday the office of the Recorder was filled to overflowing with the principal fighting-men of the City, to hear the preliminary examination of CYRUS SHAY, JOHN N. BRIGGS, SAMUEL E. BRIGGS and ANDREW HINES, on a charge, made through the affidavit of WILLIAM H. RACEY, of committing and aiding to commit a desperate assault on JOHN MACCARTHY—the said parties having been, as it is alleged, hired to commit the assault by MARCUS CICERO STANLEY. SHAY, BRIGGS and his brother were present, and defended by Ex-Judge PHILLIPS. HINES has not been arrested. It is supposed he is in Philadelphia. Ex-Recorder SMITH appeared for MACCARTHY and RACEY. The following testimony was taken:

Wm. H. Racey cross-examined on his affidavit by Judge Phillips—I have known Mr. McCarthy as long as I can recollect; I have associated with him for the past year, but not often,—about a hundred times; I have seen him within the last two weeks nearly every day; I saw him in Central Hall, Taggy Frank's, the St. Nicholas and other places along Broadway; I met Mr. McCarthy about half-past one o'clock in Grand-street, around Central Hall; I met him there accidentally; after I met him I had two drinks with him; we then went into the Museum, and left there between three and four o'clock; we returned up Broadway on the "four shilling side," I mean the right-hand side; we stopped at the Brandreth House; I proposed to go to the Broadway Post-Office; he said we should see some party with whom there would be a difficulty; I urged him to go, saying there would be no danger; this was a little after six o'clock; we passed Howard-street only once before we went to the Post-Office; I saw Mr. Hines in a stage in that neighborhood; Mr. McCarthy did not say, "Get out of the stage, I want to lick you;" at least I did not hear him say so; McCarthy called to the driver to "hold up;" when Mr. McCarthy objected to go over to the Post-Office Mr. Hines was not there; I first saw Hines several feet from the Post-Office; he was standing with his arms folded, and John N. Briggs was by his side; I made no insulting motions on seeing Hines; we passed by where they were; we did not speak to them till they spoke to us; Hines said, "there goes a d—d thief," &c.; McCarthy started to go on, I told him to stop; he did so, and I said "This is not right in Broadway, you had better step round the corner;" I and McCarthy went round and all hands followed, to the north-east corner of Broadway and Howard-street; I am employed as a detective officer in the City; McCarthy and Hines grew to talking about whipping each other; he called McCarthy "a liar;" I asked Hines if it was not his custom to call people liars; I did not at that time challenge Mr. Hines to fight; I decline to state whether I did challenge him that afternoon, upon the ground that my answer may subject me to a criminal prosecution; Hines first abused McCarthy, then McCarthy replied by saying that Hines had received money from Marcus Cicero Stanley to beat him; Hines called him a liar; I said to Hines, "Everybody knows that you have received money for attacking McCarthy, and I won't allow any difficulty here;" he replied it was none of my business what he did; Mr. Briggs made some remark, and then Hines struck McCarthy and knocked him down; I cannot tell what Briggs said; Briggs caught hold of me and let go, and then Shay caught hold of me; my impression is that Briggs kicked McCarthy in the gutter; I did not see him kick him; I, Matthews and Shay parted Briggs and McCarthy; after they were parted and on their feet, I spoke to them; I did not say "I am a fighter, and who can whip me?" I did not say that I was a "Centre Market Pet;" I was perfectly sober, and would not use such language as that; I told Mr. Hines if he struck another blow I would have to take a hand; I offered to fight him; I did not offer to fight any one else; I saw McCarthy have a pistol; he did not present it at Hines, or anybody else; it was taken from him by Mr. Shay; when McCarthy had the pistol, Hines had him by the hair, kicking him; all this time Hines was beating McCarthy; I had previously told McCarthy that there was a "book" set up for him, and that he was to be licked; I did not walk in Broadway with McCarthy for the purpose of meeting Hines; Marcus Cicero Stanley made up the "book," as he wanted satisfaction for something McCarthy had done to him,—at least I was told so,—it was all over town that he had done so; Mr. Shay, Mr. John N. Briggs, and I think Mr. Samuel E. Briggs, were there; John N. Briggs said he did not want anybody to interfere when the fight was going on.

By the Recorder—The two Mr. Briggs and Mr. Shay made a ring to prevent anybody going in to separate Hines and McCarthy; I tried to part them; I did not try to knock Mr. Hines off Mr. McCarthy in the gutter.

Direct Examination by Recorder Smith——Hines called McCarthy very foul names, using very obscene language; up to this time McCarthy had made not the slightest demonstration to assault any one; when I stated to Hines that he had received money from Marcus Cicero Stanley for whipping McCarthy, he did not deny it; he said it was none of my business; McCarthy said he knew that Hines had got paid to ill-treat him, and that he did not mean he should do it; he said this loud enough for Hines and Briggs to hear him; when McCarthy drew his pistol he was down in the gutter, Hines had hold of him by the hair, and he was bleeding; his eyes and nose had been kicked.

Cross-examination resumed—I did not on that occasion, tell anybody that I was an officer, or arrest, or attempt to arrest anybody for a breach of the peace.

Direct examination—I tried to part them all I could.

John McCarthy sworn and examined by Ex Recorder Smith—On the 24th of March I was assaulted and beaten; I was struck in the eye, and fell in the gutter from the effect of the blow; the person who struck me fell upon me and clinched me; that person is called "Figsey;" it is said his name is Andrew Hines; this was in Howard-street near the corner of Broadway; it was between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening; while I was down a man named John N. Briggs kicked me right over the eye, at the time he clinched Racey; I was kicked afterwards, but I do not know by whom; previous to being knocked down, I did not strike or threaten to strike any one; I told these parties when they abused me by insulting language, that I was satisfied that a man named Marcus Cicero Stanley had held money in his hand, and said if that could pay for having me licked, that should pay for it; I told them they were hired by Stanley to lick me; Hines said it was nobody's business, and I was a —— liar; Briggs made a remark, I could not tell what he said, but as I looked towards him, Hines knocked me down and fell on the top of me; Shay was not present when I was knocked down; I never had any difficulty with any of those parties.

Judge Phillips objected to all of the above testimony that affected Stanley. The Recorder thought it would charge Stanley with an offence not proved against him, and ordered it to be struck out, subject to the possibility of its being proved by other parties.

Cross-examined by Judge Phillips—I might have called Hines a thief when he called me a thief; I did not offer to fight Hines previous to my being knocked down and struck; I was very excited after I got up, and might have offered to fight anybody: I thought the party had come to murder me; I did not have a chance to present the pistol at anybody; I was about to present it, when it was taken away from me; I think the pistol was sent back to my house by Mr. Peckham; I did not cock the pistol; I was about doing it when it was pulled from me.

The prosecution here rested their case. Judge Phillips, for the defence, asked for the discharge of Cyrus Shay and Samuel E. Briggs, on the ground that there was no evidence against them. The Recorder determined to hold Shay, and discharged S. E. Briggs. The further hearing of the case was adjourned till Friday at 3 P. M.

The Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen met last evening, President CLANCY in the chair.

A communication was received from the Mayor, calling attention to an act to legalize a contract for cleaning the streets of this City for five years, at $344,000 a year, now before the Legislature, and recommending the passage of a resolution directing the Corporation Counsel to remonstrate against the passage of the said act. The resolution was adopted, and the communication was ordered to be printed in the minutes.

A report was received in favor of renting a building corner of Pearl and Centre streets for the use of the Second District Civil Court, at a rent of $800 a year. The report was adopted.

A report was received and ordered to be printed, in relation to the sanitary condition of the Station-houses. The report states that many of them are in very bad condition, and recommends that they be improved, and, when found necessary, that some new ones be erected.

The report and substitute in relation to improving the Russ pavement in Broadway, came up as special order.

Alderman TUCKER moved as a substitute, a resolution authorizing the Croton Aqueduct Board to complete the work in accordance with the sample in front of Grace Church.

The president decided the substitute out of order, as it would be a violation of the charter.

Alderman TUCKER appealed, and the decision was sustained by a vote of 8 to 7. The specifications allowing the gentlemen who have presented plans, 200 feet each to have them tested, were then adopted.

The Board then adjourned to Monday evening next.

Cunningham's Quarters at the City Prison.

DANIEL CUNNINGHAM, who shot PAUDEEN, occupies cell No. 44 in the Tombs, conjointly with MARONEY, who is charged with shooting HENRY F. HAMILTON in a Canal-street saloon, some months since. MARONEY does not appear to be much annoyed by his confinement; he spends his time in reading, but does not converse much with visitors. CUNNINGHAM says his health is much better here than it was in the Essex Market Prison, as he has more air, and the privilege of an occasional walk on the corridor. The walls of the cell are covered with pictures which were drawn in pencil by a former inmate named WILLIAMS, who was charged with poisoning his wife. One of them is a representation of Boston. CUNNINGHAM converses freely of the event which has brought him into his present condition. He is not surprised at the verdict of the Coroner's Jury in view of the testimony before it. He says one of the witnesses, at least, showed in the statements which he made, that he was his deadly enemy. CUNNINGHAM appears to have stood in great fear of PAUDEEN, who he says, was pulling him over the counter with one hand, while the other was drawn back as if to strike him; his feet were already off the floor, and one blow from PAUDEEN's fist would have rendered him insensible, and he had no alternative but to fire. MORRISSEY has not called to see him, but sent word that if he requires anything in his defence he would assist him. He says he was known as a friend of MORRISSEY, and on that account he was "picked upon" by MORRISSEY's enemies whenever he happened to meet with them. His cell is provided with a comfortable bed, and his meals are sent to him by his friends.

Police Intelligence.

Yesterday's Police returns were very meagre. The body of a drowned man was found floating in the slip foot of Montgomery-street, East River, and another at the foot of Thirty-second-st., East River. Inquests were held and verdicts rendered in accordance with the above facts.

Officer Reynolds arrested John Boly and George Myer, charged with entering the store of Mr. Morris Cehn, No. 181 Broadway, and stealing two and a half pounds of sewing silk, valued at $25. The goods were recovered. A lot of keys were found in the pocket of Myers, and Boly was apprehended on suspicion of being his accomplice.

John Laughlin, of No. 143 Mulberry-street, was arrested and committed to the Tombs upon complaint of Mrs. Dennis O'Connell, whom Laughlin knocked down with a shillalah, on the 19th ult. The difficulty grew out of card-playing and rum. Mrs. O'Connell is so seriously injured that her recovery is doubtful.

Clement Hayden committed suicide by taking laudanum at No. 92 Bedford-street. He has been for several days under the influence of liquor, and had had some family difficulty recently. The inmates of the house sent him to the Station-house, where the Coroner held an inquest, and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above facts.

A boy, named Wm Hart, born in Montreal, and only 7 years of age, went to the Seventeenth Ward Station-House and asked for lodgings; he said he had no father, mother or home. Capt. Hartt sent him to the Almshouse.

Elizabeth Halstead (colored) swallowed two shillings' worth of laudanum, induced by a belief of her husband's infidelity to her. She was conveyed to the City Hospital in an apparently dying condition.

Two foundlings were picked up, one of them in the rear of No. 59 Orchard-street, and sent to the Almshouse.

Three lost children were found and restored to their parents.

There were 142 arrests, and 393 lodgers at the various station-houses on Tuesday night.

A fire occurred in the stable corner of Eighty-third-street and Tenth-avenue, about 8½ P. M., Tuesday. A fluid lamp was overturned in the straw and set it on fire, and the whole building was consumed. Damage $200. Insured for $100 in the Peoples' Insurance Company. The fire communicated to the adjoining building, which was occupied by Frederick Austin for manufacturing silk tassels, &c. Damage to the building about $200; insured in the Greenwich Insurance Company. No insurance on the stock, on which the estimated loss was $300.

The Balance Dock Question.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I do not suppose, Mr. Editor, that you would knowingly give insertion to erroneous statements on this or any other question. But when you assert, as you do in your columns of to-day, that "New-York considers commerce a nuisance," you commit a grave error, even though you may only mean to state playfully what you think about the bearing of Judge ROOSEVELT's decision upon the interests of commerce,—for it goes out as the opinion of the TIMES, and will have its weight upon the public mind. Also, when you intimate that Liverpool boasts of her docks for repairing vessels, considering them a part of her commerce, you are perhaps not aware of the fact, that neither in London or Liverpool are these docks allowed to mingle with the shipping. On the contrary, they have a special locality assigned them entirely separated from the shipping, and where they cannot cause the inconveniences and annoyances which constantly beset the merchants of New-York, a fact which the Captains of any of our London and Liverpool packets will at once attest. And then again, you ask, "In what other city of the world would Dry Docks be declared a nuisance?" when no such declaration has ever been made, Judge ROOSEVELT having no more decided that Balance or other Dry Docks are nuisances, than he has that dwelling houses and blacksmith shops are such. But he does say, that if shops and houses were built upon platforms in the slips, which form a part of the water highway, they would promptly be declared nuisances. New-York is indeed proud of her commerce, and of her dry docks, which she regards as indispensable requisites of commerce, but then it does not follow that such docks should be located in places needed for shipping, whereby vessels, with the most valuable cargoes, are oftentimes compelled to wait ten or twelve days for a berth.

So keenly is this dry-dock monopoly of the wharves, piers, and slips of the City felt by the shipping merchants of New-York, that more than five hundred have affixed their names to a remonstrance against the passage of the bill now before the Legislature. Indeed, this very day, a committee of six or eight of the leading shipping-merchants of our City, including CHARLES MARSHALL and MOSES H. GRINNELL, were dispatched to Albany, as a delegation to protest, among other things, against what they conceive to be the unjust and injurious tendencies of this bill.

It is but seldom that the commercial part of this balance dock question is correctly stated. The Evening Post, of Saturday last, contained a most disingenuous article on the subject, the arguments of which I took the trouble to refute; and, as the subject therein presented by me involves most of the points made in the Times, I now offer it for insertion in your valuable paper.

THE BALANCE DOCK COMPANIES AND JUDGE ROOSEVELT—THE OTHER SIDE OF THE QUESTION.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Will you allow me, on behalf of many of our leading shipping merchants, several of whom are large stockholders in these docks, to correct the injurious and mischievous errors which pervade and support a prominent article in your paper of the 27th inst., in relation to Balance Dock structures; wherein the writer seeks to impress your readers that Judge ROOSEVELT has decided that "Balance and Dry Docks are nuisances," and that, therefore, the "coppering, caulking or repairing of vessels is not as lawful an employment as the building of them!" He then says that a bill has been introduced into the Legislature to modify or remove the oppressive character of this unjust decision—speaks sneeringly of the Judge's law, and expatiates, very learnedly and feelingly, upon the great advantages of the Docks to commerce, which nobody questions, and then expresses astonishment that the distinguished jurist, whose opinion is attracting so much attention should be guilty of the "practical absurdity" of thinking otherwise.

Now you will at once perceive how greatly the writer in the Post has misapprehended the present controversy, when I assure you that Judge ROOSEVELT has nowhere decided that floating or balance docks, abstractly considered, are nuisances. He merely decided that they are nuisances in their present locality; and it may be seen by his decision, (herewith transmitted,) that the learned Judge was greatly assisted in arriving at his conclusions by the fact, that the plaintiffs had clearly proved before him that there was a number of places in the port, where these docks might carry on their important and indispensable operations, with advantage to themselves, and without at all interfering with the shipping itself, or monopolizing, as they now do, the use of the wharves, piers and slips. Just think of eleven or twelve of these huge structures for repairing and coppering vessels, located in the water-front of a single ward, and say whether it is not, in the language of the Judge, "an obstruction of the highway and an exclusive appropriation to the few of the rights belonging equally to the many?"

You will not be able to find in the length and breadth of Judge ROOSEVELT's decision that he has uttered a syllable of anything but admiration concerning the magnificent improvements in the coppering and repairing of vessels; yet, notwithstanding all this, he is held up as a judicial trifler with corporate rights and great commercial interests. But such talk must come to be regarded as having its origin in the hopelessness and desperation of a bad cause.

Permit me now to direct your attention to the so-called bill to "legalize the floating docks." You will observe, upon a reperusal of the bill, that it does not ask for any such thing as a legalization of the floating docks: and for the reason, that its advocates know that the question of the legality of the business of the corporators, was never raised by any human being, although the title of the bill shrewdly suggests such an issue, in the use of the words, "An act to declare the legality of the use of certain floating docks." But why does not the bill itself ask for that which its title implies? Why, on the contrary, does it ask that the use of the slips by them be declared a legal use? And why does it ask even that, by mere implication? Why does it not frankly and unmistakably ask that the docks of the New-York Balance Dock Company and other similar structures, be allowed to stay where they are? the decision of the Supreme Court to the contrary notwithstanding. That is precisely what they want, and all they want. Why not, then, openly ask for it? Evidently because, in the first place, the able framers of the bill wish to mislead the Press, and through it the public mind; and secondly, because they would be ridiculed for asking the guarantee of a right which had never been alienated or questioned. The deception, however, is allowed to remain in the title of the bill, in order that the public may be erroneously impressed that Judge ROOSEVELT's decision has driven the Balance Dock Managers to the Legislature in pursuit of a bill to legalize the docks, as the only means of rendering the business of the Companies respectable!

It could not be expected, however, in these degenerate days, when judicial and legislative proceedings are fraught with so much corruption, that a manly and straightforward judicial opinion should pass without its share of obloquy and misrepresentation.

THE BRIDE OF AN EVENING.—Twice a day this present week, this graphic heart-story at Barnum's Museum. Every afternoon and every evening crowds of people sit and weep over this stirring picture of the weakness of circumstantial evidence. It makes you realize at once the fearful uncertainty of such a proof of culpability, and, delighted at the result, you feel no praise too great for the interesting means by which you have reached it.

Brooklyn City Items.

Judge CULVER, of the City Court, has commenced a libel suit against Deacon JOHN WESTERVELT of the First Baptist Church, and one of the Committee appointed to investigate the charges of immoral conduct preferred against the Judge. The alleged libel is contained in a preamble and resolution entered on the Church books, in which the guilt of Judge CULVER is assumed as a matter proven. The case will be before Judge LOTT, on Monday next, on a motion to vacate an order requiring the defendant to appear with his book, before Judge MORRIS.

A car load of Democrats, with not a few Americans, left Brooklyn yesterday for Albany to urge the repeal (in effect) of the act of last Winter, which changes the election of Brooklyn Charter officers from Fall to Spring. The terrible splits in the Democratic Party make the repeal quite a necessity for their healing.

The American City Convention met last evening in the Shakespeare Hotel, Montague-street. Alderman JAMES A. VAN BRUNT was appointed Chairman, and JOHN Q. ADAMS, Secretary. On the first ballot, for Justice of the Peace in the Fourth District, WM. H. MCDONALD received 33 of the 36 votes cast, and the nomination was made unanimous.

A man named NOONAN, residing near the Fifth Precinct Station-house, Eastern District, dropped dead in the street last night. His remains were taken in charge by the Fifth Precinct Police, and the Coroner notified.

One of EDWARD HARVEY'S extensive oil-cloth factories on Bergen-street, near Vanderbilt-avenue, was destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock last night. The loss is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000, a part of which is covered by insurances.

Col. JESSE C. SMITH having resigned the command of the 14th Regiment, on Tuesday evening last, Lieut.-Col. M. M. WARD was promoted to fill the vacancy, and Capt. HORACE SPRAGUE was elected Lieutenant-Colonel.

The Kings County Republican General Committee has adopted a resolution requesting the Governor to appoint JESSE C. SMITH, Esq., Police Commissioner, in the place of Mr. STRANAHAN.

A man named PETER SMITH, was arrested Tuesday night, in the Ninth Ward, charged with robbing a man of $34 on the highway, a few nights ago. He was committed to answer.

The Convention adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman, provided the act now before the Legislature shall pass, making it necessary to elect the financial officers of the city.

The Brooklyn Tammany Hall Party have nominated JOSEPH WILSON, of the Eighth Ward, as a candidate for Comptroller.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer was open for a short time yesterday morning. A number of prisoners were brought in, and all the indictments except those for capital offences, were transferred to the Court of Sessions for trial. Patrick Lally, Geo. McGarry, and Joseph J. Mellen, indicted for killing George Simonson, were arraigned, but were excused from entering a plea, as their counsel, Richard Busteed, Esq., was absent. Christopher Reynolds, indicted for killing his brother, Dennis Reynolds, on the 17th of March, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Jacob Granger, a resident of the Eastern District, indicted for arson, was arraigned, and pleaded not guilty. The murder trials will be commenced on the 26th of April. Stephen Wilks, foreman in Barber's Pork packing establishment, Red Hook Point, indicted for grand larceny, was called to plead. He did not appear, and his bail was declared forfeited. The Court then adjourned.

The Circuit Court stands adjourned till April 5. Henry Menge, in the Circuit Court, Tuesday, recovered a verdict of $175 against the Long Island Railroad Company, the value of a horse killed by a locomotive.

The city of Wheeling is up in arms against the Gas Company, on account of exorbitant charges, and large numbers of citizens have inaugurated the use of candles, carbon oil, and other illuminators instead, at a saving. They refuse to pay over $2 per 1,000 feet, for gas.

WEDNESDAY, March 31—P. M.

The foreign mails by the Persia, to March 20, from England, were delivered at an early hour this morning. The private mercantile and financial letters made little or no reference to political news, and the steadiness of the French and English funds is the reverse of distrust in regard to the good understanding between the two countries. The London houses connected with the business in American Stocks write cheerfully, and report the securities of at least four of our great railway lines in growing favor. The President of the Erie Company returned by the Persia, after having accomplished more by his presence in England than he dared promise his board before leaving home in January. About two-thirds of the new mortgage has been placed on this and the other side, one-half the proceeds, or sufficient to disembarrass the current finances of the road, being in cash, and the remainder in the unsecured bonds of the Company. The Board of Directors were unwilling to make any new sacrifices in the way of discount on the present mortgage, or the money could probably have been had in England for the remainder of the $6,000,000; leaving the risk of buying in the old bonds upon the Company, instead of the takers of the new loan. The shares of the Illinois Company had improved in London from 90@91 to 93@93½, and were in request. The shares of the New-York Central, after selling at 82½, were held for 84 ℔ cent. Sales of Erie shares at 28. The Bonds of the Pennsylvania Central and of the Panama Company, were held for an advance. State Stocks steady in price, but BARING reports that very little business was doing in them. Mr. SATTERTHWAITE writes:

"There has been a steady demand for the best descriptions of American Bonds in London during the past week. Prices are firmly maintained. Illinois Central Shares have been more in demand, at a slight advance. New-York Central and Erie Shares are steady at former rates."

The return from the Bank of England for the week ending the 17th of March, gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

Public deposits	£6,577,037	Increase	£599,495
Other deposits	13,770,139	Decrease	130,632
Rest	3,890,992	Increase	1,630
Government securities	9,901,993	Decrease	457
Other securities	16,561,953	Decrease	57,680
Notes unemployed	12,347,855	Increase	479,815

The amount of notes in circulation is £19,210,880, being a decrease of £286,625, and the stock of bullion in both departments, is £17,962,155, showing an increase of £248,913 when compared with the preceding return.

The following table will show the fluctuations in Consols since the 12th inst.:

On our own Stock Exchange, to-day, after the adjournment of the early Board, there was a general break-down in prices upon the Share list, and a great eagerness evinced by the Bears to put out contracts on the decline. The prices marked at or near the close are the lowest on most of the active stocks known since the middle of February. The actual business accomplished was scarcely an ordinary average, nor was the particular cause of this sudden yielding of 2@2½ ℔ cent. from yesterdays sales (and almost as much from the opening business of the morning) made very intelligible. At first the onset appeared to be on New-York and Erie shares, the pretext being the return of the President of the Company without all the money the concern is in need of. But this rumor, and all others of a mere local or specific character, failed, when the decline extended in the afternoon to New-York Central, Hudson River, Reading and Chicago and Rock Island, although the sellers of the last-named rest upon a reported falling off of $50,000 in the March receipts of the line. The final complexion of the Bear news on the Street took the form of "War between France and England." And the importance of this having utterly failed of due appreciation on the London Exchange or Paris Bourse, up to the very latest accounts by the Persia, it was deemed right that the effect should be precipitated here to the full extent of a young panic of 2½ ℔ cent., in the midst of profound peace and an easy Money market! That some of the English press and letter-writers are disposed to speculate upon the chances of War is not questioned. The London Times people (one of whom corresponds very ably with an afternoon cotemporary) are of this class. But opposed to these are the practical Stock and Money quotations by the Persia, and the still more practical orders for our great staple of Cotton, from some of the best Continental and English sources. These last would certainly fare badly on the slightest premonition of trouble between two such powers as France and England. The general market this afternoon assumed a partial measure of steadiness at the very close, though the recovery in prices from the lowest sales on the Second Board printed list was scarcely perceptible. Erie left off 22 ℔ cent.; Central, 85¾; Reading, 46⅜; Rock Island, 73. On the Railway Bond list the decline was 4 ℔ cent. on La Crosse Land Grant, and 2 ℔ cent. on Erie Third Mortgage. The State list scarcely varied from Tuesday; the business was confined to Michigan 6s.

The following is Mr. W. P. WRIGHT's weekly report of the Cotton trade, as given in his circular which went out by the Arabia to-day. It was prepared, of course, before the receipt of the Persia's news:

Per Arabia.] NEW-YORK, Tuesday, March 30, 1858.

My last circular was dated the 23d inst., since which we have received advices per Niagara to 13th of March. Large arrivals of Cotton, and partial absence of demand, had caused a decline in the Liverpool market of ⅛d.@⅜d. ℔ lb. Middling Orleans was quoted at 7 9-16d.; Mobiles, 7⅜d., and Uplands, 7¼d. ℔ lb. The week's sales amounted to but 21,000 bales. The Manchester market was quiet, and prices tending downward. To-day, per City of Baltimore, with dates to 17th inst., we learn that the sales for four days in Liverpool were 11,000 bales, the market closing heavily at an ⅛d. ℔ lb. decline. In Manchester trade was depressed and prices declining.

Some of the cotton mills in the various parts of the country have lately resumed work. We have had, therefore, more inquiry in this market from our domestic consumers, and the price for qualities suited to their wants is full, with a tendency to greater firmness. Since the arrival of the news per Niagara, via Halifax, we have but little demand for export, and upon the receipts of the letters yesterday, a general reduction of limits was discovered, and which are inoperative at present quotations. The sales for the week, on the spot, have been 10,000 bales, market closing firmly at the quotations annexed. The clearances for same time have been—to Liverpool, 4,276 bales; Havre, 347; Bremen, 349; Riga, 819. Total, 5,791 bales.

COTTON IN TRANSITU.—Prior to receipt of the advices ℔ Niagara several parcels of transit cotton were sold at a decline of about ⅛c. ℔ lb. Since then the business has been limited, the market unsettled, and yesterday it was difficult to fix upon quotations. Holders are firm, but buyers are not willing to go on. This mail carries out samples of a large quantity. The sales for the week I estimate at 5,000 bales.

SOUTHERN MARKETS.—The particulars as received ℔ mail are given in detail elsewhere. By telegraph we have the business for a week later at Mobile and New-Orleans. The sales were large in each, chiefly on English account, and prices closed at a slight reduction. The decline in Liverpool as reported ℔ Niagara had very little effect on any of the Southern markets, either in arresting the amount of sales or reducing the previous currency. Yesterday in Mobile and New-Orleans an advance is reported with more business doing. Middling in the former is quoted at 11¼c.@11⅜c., and in the latter 11½c. for Strict Middling.

CROP.—All estimates below 3,000,000 bales appear to be abandoned, and this figure seems to be considered now the minimum estimate.

RECEIPTS at the ports for the week under review amount to 98,000 bales, against 53,000 during the corresponding week last year. The total deficit is reduced to 240,000 bales, as compared with the corresponding date last season. Next week a further reduction will be made, as we know by telegraph from Mobile and New-Orleans the aggregate receipts at these two points for next week's table exceed considerably the quantity received at all the ports in the corresponding week of last year.

Exports for the week to Great Britain amount to 72,000 bales, against 55,000 last year. The total deficit as compared with last season is reduced to 15,000; this will soon disappear, and a gain upon the quantity exported to Great Britain, as compared with last year, will soon be shown. So large a portion of the business done in all the Southern markets during the past six weeks has been on English account that we cannot fail to have a large weekly export for some time to come; and it appears more than probable that we shall give out of this crop to Great Britain at least 1,800,000 bales, versus 1,428,000 out of the last crop. To France we have exported 16,000 bales during the week, the deficit as compared with last year is now 37,000. To other foreign ports the exports has been 6,000 bales, and the deficit now amounts to 76,000 as compared with last year. The total deficit to all ports amounts to 128,000. The stock on hand this year is 800,000 bales; same time last year, 585,000.

The following is a statement of the movement in Cotton since the 1st September, as compared with the previous four years:

He also, on the trip over, found one of the can buoys of the reef, in the gulf, sixty miles from land. It was put down by himself but a few weeks previous, and had been torn from its moorings by a violent Norther. Lieut. W. reports the loss of the bark Lester, Capt.
